Carter was apparently dazed, but talked rational at times, and stated that he came from the alms house at Rockville. He further claimed that he had a relative by the name of Thomas Redmond in Georgetown, whom he was trying to find. Carter was brought to the seventh precinct and after a careful examination was committed to the Washington Insane Asylum for treatment.

Lecture.—On Thanksgiving night Mr. A. A. Braddock, of this town, gave a lecture, entitled "Here and Hereafter," before a well-pleased audience in the Baptist church of Rockville.

The lecture opened with the wailing babe, its beauty and strong family resemblance; followed by the infant boy, with his inquisitiveness and tempestuous kicking—"a habit that coheres to man through life," the speaker added parenthetically; the older boy, with his manhood and world-wielding countenance; the man of maturity, with his conservatism, cumulative experience, prosperity and misfortune; the older man, with his insatiable desire to conquer in the different walks of life. These different periods of life were vividly characterized with humor and eloquence. The latter part of the address brooked the path of righteousness with strokes of holy ardor, which if followed "here" lead to eternal peace "hereafter."

The lecture occupied about forty minutes in delivery, and besides the humor and eloquence it contained there were many poetical and oratorical quotations, which indicated an intimate acquaintance of the lecturer with the parent authors.

The pleasure of the occasion was added to by the sweet solos rendered by Miss Barry Albert, of this town, and Mrs. Susie Kerr, of Washington city, and several pieces from the graphophone, operated by Mr. C. B. Winslow, of Washington.

The proceeds were donated to the church rebuilding fund.

Contract Awarded for New Church.—The opening of the bids received from eight different contractors of Washington, Kensington, Virginia and Gaithersburg by the recently appointed building committee to have in charge the erection of the modern new edifice of the Southern Methodist of Gaithersburg resulted in the award of the contract to James L. Gardner, of Haines, Va., who was the lowest bidder. At his bid of $11,800 he signed a contract last week at a meeting with the building committee to complete the construction, except the interior furnishings, within ten months from date.

The plans adopted were drawn by a Baltimore architect, and the building will be of brick, modern in design and conveniences, and located on the corner lot at the intersection of Walker and Frederick avenues, Gaithersburg, recently donated as a site by Messrs. J. Wesley Walker and Carson Ward.

The building committee having in charge the enterprise is composed of Rev. Thomas J. Lamborn, chairman; Wm. H. Talbot, secretary; John W. Briggs, J. W. Walker, Zach. A. Briggs, Carson Ward, James K. Walker and Gideon D. Briggs. It is understood that about three-fourths of the building fund required has been raised already, $6,000 contributed by leading members of the congregation inaugurating the movement for a new church, and the other raised at rally day services recently by subscriptions, when the presiding elder, Rev. Dr. W. H. D. Harper, preached and heartily approved the effort.

A factory for Rockville.—The Rockville Manufacturing Company was organized last Monday evening, with the following officers: President, Washington Hicks; Vice-President, Joseph Mendels; Secretary and Treasurer, Philip D. Laird. Those present, with Messrs. Willis B. Bardette, David J. Bready, Thomas C. Grooms, Wallace E. Ricketts and Oscar L. Johnson, are directors. A building committee, with Messrs. Hicks, Grooms and Bardette as members, and a committee on transportation, composed of Messrs. Mendels, Bready and Ricketts, were also named. The company is formed for the purpose of establishing a factory for the manufacture of wrappers. It is stated that a sufficient amount of money has already been raised, and that a lot will be secured and a suitable building erected in the near future. The proposed factory will, it is understood, give employment to about fifty young women.

An Amusing Case.—The emotions of an audience listening to the trial of a criminal docket before a court suddenly change. That of dread from the oft repeated terms of murder and seduction from the path of virtue in an assault case just finished to the excitement of the trial of the wife of a negro boy charged by the State with stealing a coat now on trial. The emotion of laughter was aroused in the case of the State of Maryland vs. Eddie Waits, charged with stealing a coat from Col. Wm. Kilgour, of this town, and tried in the Circuit Court here on Tuesday last. The Colonel was the only witness and his evidence ran thus:

Last August he employed Eddie Waits, a ragged and unclean boy, to do some outside work around his home, for which Waits was given some clothing and a pair of shoes, besides his wages. Eddie was engaged to come back the next day to do some whitewashing for the Colonel.

"Come early," said the Colonel.

"Yes, sir," replied Eddie, "I'll have to come early, as I expect a telegram in the course of the day."

Eddie did not put in his appearance at the appointed time. A few days later the Colonel was working in his garden with his coat hanging on the fence hidden from his sight by the intervening dwelling. Along came a negro boy, of whom the Colonel inquired:

"Do you know Eddie Waits?" the Colonel mistaking the name.

"No, sir," answered the boy. "Where does he live?"

"Round in Monkey Run," said the Colonel.

"You mean Eddie Waits," said the boy.

"Yes, that's the boy," said the Colonel. "I engaged him to do some whitewashing for me."

"He's no account; you can't rely on him," said Waits, for it was none other than he, disguised in the Colonel's gift of clothing, "playing" him up in his blind side. He sauntered off, yet unknown to the Colonel.

The Colonel's work finished, he started to get his coat. It was missing. Search was instituted with the aid of Town Sergeant Green, who, with the instinct of Sherlock Holmes, repaired to the Woodlawn Hotel, where Eddie Waits was employed as a waiter. In short, the coat was found in his possession. His capture started a recount of his exploits in criminal life and imprisonment. One of his petty thefts was recalled, that he stole a dozen chickens at night from a gentleman, after working for him a day, dressed and sold them to the gentleman's mother in-law.

The scene changed. The Court seriously inquired of Eddie Waits he had any reason to give why sentence should not be passed upon him. His counsel asked consideration for his age.

"How old is he?" asked the Judge.

"Eighteen years," replied the counsel.

"Just old enough to be sent to the House of Correction," said the Judge, and he was sentenced to that institution for three years, and warned that if he came before the Court again he would get ten years. Waits pranked countenance more another cast and with it he was marched back to jail.

Wills Filed.—The will of Spencer Watkins, deceased, has been admitted to probate and record in the Orphans' Court at this place. Mrs. Maria B. Watkins, widow of the deceased, is named as executrix. To Mrs. Annie E. Volder, sister in law of Mr. Watkins, is left a sum sufficient to make up $5,000 with a certain sum owed her by deceased. The rest of the estate, both real and personal, is bequeathed to the widow during her lifetime, when it is to go to the two daughters, Miss Helen Watkins and Mrs. Annie Burr, share and share alike.

The will of Amos T. Holland has also been admitted to probate and record. Mr. Jas. Thomas Holland, a farm of 118 acres and all the personal property on the place; to Claggett Sister Holland and William Grafton Holland, sons of James Claggett Holland, he leaves $1,000 each; to William H. Talbot and Ann M. Stalter, as executors, he bequeaths the rest of the estate, to be disposed of as follows: To pay to children of Mrs. Doris Welsh, of Laurel, the sum of $1,000 each; to Charles Holland and Philip Holland, sons of James Thomas Holland, the sum of $1,000 each; to Annie Holland Owens, the income from $10,000 until she reaches the age of forty years, when she is to be paid the principal; to his sister Mrs. Virginia S. Steer, the rest of the estate during her lifetime, and upon her death to go to Charles and Philip Holland. The instrument asks that the executors be required to furnish not more than a bond of $25,000.

Report of the Grand Jury.

To the Honorable the Judges of the Circuit Court for Montgomery county:

The Grand Jury of Montgomery county for November Term of Court, 1904, respectfully begs leave to report as follows:

We have examined 169 witnesses and have found 61 presentments. The serious nature of many of the cases that came before us necessitated careful investigation.

We visited the jail and found the building and grounds clean and in good sanitary condition, as so old a building could well be kept. But we consider the building as unsuited to modern sanitary ideas. At the present time there are 31 inmates—3 white males and 10 colored males.

A committee of our body visited the Alms House and found 31 inmates—13 white males, 4 white females, 2 negro males, 3 negro females, 4 negro children. The house was in a clean, neat and sanitary condition, all the apartments in good order and the inmates apparently happy and contented.

We found 5 work horses, 8 milch cows, 1 heifer, 1 bull calf, 1 bull, 20 pork hogs, 3 sows, 1 boar, 6 sheep, 7 pigs, 538 bales of wheat, 260 tons of hay, and 35 tons of corn.

After inspecting the Court House, we recommend that more seats be placed in the corridor for the comfort of witnesses summoned before the Grand Jury, and that the Court House be repaired, and we further recommend that a closet for the use of women be put in the Court House, the latter we consider as especially needed.

Having performed all the duties brought to the attention of the Grand Jury, we respectfully ask to be discharged.

JOHN H. FARLEY, Foreman.

How We Catch Cold.

A cold is sometimes contracted while remaining inactive for a while in an uncomfortable room or a cold draft, and by falling to sleep under like conditions. But most colds are caught while sleeping too cold at night. Deep sleep causes sluggish circulation which renders the system susceptible to change of temperature. To prevent colds, sleep under plenty of cover. Use Rydale's Elixir, it lessens the severity and shortens the duration of the cold and prevents Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Consumption. R. W. Vinson, Rockville; G. W. Richison, Gaithersburg.
