LABOR STANDS FOR STRIKES

Gompers Tells Federation Workers Will Not Give Up Right

NOT IN SYMPATHY WITH BOLSHEVISM

MONTREAL, Que., June 7 (United Press)—Organized labor is determined not to give up the right to strike, President Samuel Gompers made this clear here today in opening the fortieth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"Opposition to the rights of labor must be resisted at all costs," said Gompers, recalling the criticism of the use of the strike weapon by labor in the past year.

Tyranny and repression of the liberties of the people has developed as an aftermath of the war period in the United States and all countries, Gompers declared.

"Through their trades unions, the workers of the world have an international aspiration to crush tyranny wherever it may be found," said Gompers.

Gompers emphasized that the American Federation of Labor has no connection with the European internationale, called the instrument of Bolshevism.

"The American Federation of Labor," said Gompers, "is more out of sympathy with so-called internationale than any other group of labor men in the world."

Reduction of wages has no place in organized labor's program to reduce prices, Vice-President Matthew Woll indicated.

"Wage increases are not the basis of the present inflated cost of living," Woll said.

How to reduce living costs is to be the main subject before the convention which will frame policies for the next 12 months for four million organized workers.

A drastic program for government action in the price situation framed by the executive committee was presented to the convention immediately after Gompers sounded the keynote.

The program will be presented to the Republican National Convention late Tuesday or early Wednesday by Gompers, under present plans. Gompers and Woll were to leave here late tonight on a flying trip to Chicago.

Returning to Montreal Thursday, Gompers will report to the convention the attitude of the Republican leaders toward labor's program. The program also will be presented to the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco late this month.

With two weeks' work before them the 1000 delegates to the convention plunged into consideration of international relations, profiteering, new legislation, higher pay for school teachers and postal workers and a score of other issues.

Dan McKillop, of Seattle, representing the boiler makers union, announced he would introduce a resolution demanding freedom for Ireland. McKillop's announcement caused speculation when it was remembered that the convention is being held on British soil.

The convention is expected to pass a resolution calling on the government to refrain from intervention in Mexico. Another resolution planned for early consideration censures Attorney General Palmer for use of the injunction in the coal strike and for his alleged failure to prosecute large corporations believed guilty of profiteering.

YOUNG ATWELL HAS FINGER AMPUTATED

William P. Atwell, aged 12 years, son of Police Operator Howard Atwell, had the middle finger of his left hand amputated at the Delaware Hospital, yesterday by Dr. Albert J. Strikol, assisted by Police Surgeon George W. K. Forrest, who has attended the boy since his injury last week. The amputation became necessary as gangrene had developed.

The accident of young Atwell was a peculiar one. He had been seated on the limb of a tree in Kirkwood Park, watching a game of baseball, and at its conclusion, attempted to slide down with his arms around the tree trunk. A projecting nail caught on a ring on the boy's finger and he swung clear of the tree his weight suspended on the one finger until the ring broke.

When taken to the hospital it was found that the flesh had been torn away clear to the bone, but an attempt was made to save the member until gangrene developed making amputation necessary.

TINSMAN STARTS IN TO STOP SPEEDING

Detective "Bill" Tinsman, who has been designed by the Levy Court, as a special officer to break of speeding on the county roads, assisted by Constable Andrew E. Cole, yesterday secured evidence against nine offenders on Concord Pike, who will be given hearings tomorrow evening, before Magistrates Broman and Gluckman.

Tinsman says he is being paid a straight salary by the Levy Court, and that he receives no fees for arrests made by him of speeders.

While only nine alleged offenders are to be arrested, a larger number is said to have exceeded the speed limit, but owing to the rate they were traveling, neither officer was able to secure their number.

Quite a number of Maryland and Pennsylvania cars were exceeding the limit yesterday, but no arrests were made as the officers could not leave their posts. Next Sunday additional help will be provided and all foreign violators will be taken to the police station.

TO HANG PICTURE OF LATE JURIST

The photograph of the late Philip O. Churchman, judge of the Municipal Court, which was on display in the show window of the Millard F. Davis store, Tenth and Market streets, has been delivered to the office of Charles J. Coleman, clerk of City Court.

The photo, taken by Ellis, has been enlarged and framed in a dark frame with a narrow gold trimming. It will be hung from the wall in the court room in the City Building.

The picture measures 18 by 24 inches.

TO TEACH 1500 BOYS TO SWIM

More than 1500 boys of Wilmington will be taught the art of swimming without charge during the week of June 14, at which time the Corsan swimming campaign will take place under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. The association will meet the expenses of the campaign and contribute the aid of its physical director, Leroy P. Sparks, and the use of its pool, which will be closed to the public during that time.

The object of the campaign is to avert further loss of life of swimmers, caused by improper breathing. G. H. Corsan, international swimming expert, who won honors for his new and adequate methods of instruction, will be in charge of the campaign. Mr. Corsan will group a mass of boys in the swimming pool of the Y. M. C. A., and that of the city, in Brandywine Park, and after six scientific lessons claims he will produce swimmers who will be able to cope with many emergencies. A false bottom, making the water three feet deep, will be installed in the pools to make it safe for the boys.

According to Mr. Sparks, the instructor's methods are so uncommon that generally ninety per cent. of his massed pupils become good swimmers after his six lessons, and the remaining, having received such preliminary training, will acquire the art after a short time. It was also stated by the association that more than 1,500 boys have already enrolled and applications are increasing. Parochial school boys are enrolling, which will make the number much greater. Similar instruction will be opened for men during the week of June 28.

Next Monday night, Mr. Corsan will give an exhibition of his swimming stunts in the Y. M. C. A. pool.

In a recent article published in the Physical Culture magazine, by Mr. Corsan, the expert says he adopted mass teaching of swimming by noticing distressed mothers, whose sons have met death by drowning.

"I undertook to teach swimming," writes the instructor, at the end of last century. The first thing I discovered was that few knew how to teach the art. In the first place none of the so-called experts actually were drowned from cramps but from strangulation. They were choked to death in the water as the result of improper breathing. The simplest form of instruction will soon make you a master of breathing in the water, and I thing I will live to see the day when no one will strangle to death in water."

HE GOES TO JAIL TO BREAK DRUG EVIL

Confessing that he is in the habit of taking three or four "shots" of "dope" every day, John Jenkins, Negro, when arraigned in Municipal Court this morning on a charge of having a narcotic drug in his possession, declared that he wants to be broken of the practice, if possible. His wishes were complied with, Deputy Judge Finger sentencing him to six months' imprisonment, during which time he will receive treatment for the habit.

Patrolman Andrew Devenney testified that on Saturday he and Officer Rodenheiser watched through a window of Jenkins' home, 4 West Front street, while the man's wife prepared a "shot" of the drug, which Jenkins administered to himself. Both Jenkins and his wife, Mary were arrested on a charge of having a narcotic drug in their possession, but the woman was unable to appear in court this morning because of illness. Her case was continued until Friday at the request of her attorney, John F. Lynn.

CLUMSY PASSENGER PUT NEGROES IN BAD

Upon leaving a Delaware avenue car at Broome street this morning, a passenger accidentally kicked a knitted bag, which lay on the floor in front of an old Negress.

There was a crash of glass and a one-time familiar odor floated through the car. The passengers smiled knowingly, the conductor sniffed suspiciously, and the Negress, grabbing the dripping bag, hastily left the car. And nothing was left but a wet spot and the odor of whiskey.

The building will be separate from the new bank of the Savings' Society, at the corner of Ninth and Market streets, and will immediately adjoin it on the south. GARBAGE QUESTION TO BE UP TOMORROW

A meeting of the city Board of Health will be held tomorrow afternoon, at which the question of garbage disposal and the complaints concerning the odors from the crematory near the Harlan shipyard, will be discussed.

Dr. C. M. Hanby, president of the board, was optimistic this afternoon over the situation. "I feel confident we shall find a way out of the difficulty," he said, "although I am free to admit it is a difficult one.

"Wilmington," he continued," is not alone in its garbage problem. Take New York, for instance. The city built a splendid crematory at a great cost, on Long Island. The residents of the island obtained an injunction. Then the city built another crematory on Staten Island. Again the residents objected. Now New York is hauling its garbage out to sea and dumping it, at a cost of something like $1.50 a ton.

"In comparison with this figure, Wilmington today is disposing of its garbage at a cost to the city of only about 21 cents a ton. The great saving is apparent."

SLASHED AFTER HIS VISIT TO GIRL

For assault and battery on Fred Shields, Weston Bryant was fined $100 and costs, with the alternative of serving six months' imprisonment, by Deputy Judge Finger, in Municipal Court this morning. Both are Negroes.

Each of the men accused the other of being the aggressor in a fracas yesterday. Fred said that while visiting his girl's house, he accidentally brushed against Bryant and when he begged his pardon, Bryant drew a knife and cut him behind the ear, inflicting a cut that required four stitched to close. He then forced him down and was about to draw the blade across his throat when another Negro arrived and prevented him, Shields declared.

Weston said that Fred first swung on him and that he then, to protect himself, cut the much bigger Negro.

CITY'S GAIN IS MOROCCO TRADE LOSS

Water consumption in Wimington is decreasing three million gallons a day, according to the report made at the meeting of the Water Board this morning. The decline is attributed to dull season in the morocco trade because of inability to obtain raw material as well as to find a market for the finished product.

The water consumption for last week was 92,543,000 gallons, a decrease of 20,987,000 gallons under the consumption of the corresponding week of last year. The pumpage for last week was 92,650,940 gallons, a decrease of 13,742,820 gallons.

The current fund for the department was reported as $33,447.49; special fund, $5,519.12; current payroll, $2,332,-89, and special payroll, $133.59.

The boy in Dallas was found in the possession of a Negro woman, the report said.

SKULL FRACTURED, HE'S HAZY YET

At the request of the defendant's counsel, W. W. Knowles, who stated that he desires to obtain additional witnesses, the case of Ethmos J. Frank, charged with assault and battery on Thomas Leonard on May 8, was continued for further hearing tomorrow by Deputy Judge Finger, in Municipal Court this morning.

The arrest of Frank was delayed because Leonard, who suffered a fractured skull, was unable to recall the circumstances until a few days ago because of his injuries.

Leonard testified that when he refused to take a cut of pie at 15 cents at the defendant's restaurant, Second and Union streets, Frank punched him in the eye. As he arose to leave the place, Leonard stated, he was struck a heavy blow over the head that stuned him so that he could not remember how he left the eating place.

Leonard, it was shown, was found a few minutes later lying on the pavement outside the restaurant, blood pouring from his head.

Frank denied striking Leonard. He said that on the night Leonard was found injured, he closed his restaurant at midnight, although it was shown that Leonard was in the restaurant at 12.30 o'clock. Leonard stated that it was after 12 o'clock that he went into the restaurant.

MILLIONS INVOLVED IN COCA COLA FIGHT

Injunction proceedings in United States District Court, scheduled for Wednesday morning, between the Coca Cola Bottling Company, of Chattanooga, Tenn., against the Coca Cola Company, of this city, promises to be a rather lengthy affair of all of the documentary evidence so far submitted is read in court, but the large amount of money involved, running well up into the millions, and the large array of legal talent both for the plaintiff and defendant, make the case of more than usual interest in legal circles.

So far over one thousand typewritten sheets of testimony have been filed with the clerk of the court in this case and the defense is yet to be heard.

The plaintiff is represented by Herbert H. Ward and the defendant by Robert H. Richards and William S. Hilles, all of this city. Each side also has a large array of other prominent attorneys in addition to the local men.

The action is brought by the Chattanooga concern to restrain the parent company, formerly a Georgia corporation but now a Delaware corporation, from shutting off its supply of syrup or selling any rights in the plaintiff's territory for the bottling of Coca Cola.

LUKE SAYS JAIL HAS RUINED HIM

Released from the workhouse only three or four days ago after serving a sentence of ten days for vagrancy, George Luke, whose one aim in life seems to be to avoid work, was arrested again last night by Officer Andrew Devenney on the same charge. It was about his twenty-fifth arrest for the same offense.

When Luke was brought before him in Municipal Court, this morning, Deputy Judge Finger, still hoping to induce Luke to take a different and better view of life, ordered that the man be brought before him for a private talk after court had adjourned. After his talk with Luke, the judge ordered that the man be locked up at the city hall and he again brought before the court tomorrow morning.

Luke has impressed the court as being a man of more than average intelligence in some respects, but in other respects as being below normal.

During his talk with the judge, Luke held the view that once a man has been in jail it is useless for him to try to live a better life after being released. He stubbornly stuck to all of his ideas, and even the judge's persuasive and benignant admonitions failed to make him change his rather distorted views.

George told the court that he has always been a hard working man, but now, at the age of 40 years, he will not work steady. He works, he said, long enough to lay aside some money and then idles his time until he has spent all his money. Then, he said, he returns to work.

"You do not expect to do this all your days, do you?" questioned Judge Finger.

"Why, certainly, or until I get married," was George's reply.

When the court then reminded him that old age would soon compel him to give up all work, Luke responded:

"Why so? Doesn't the Bible say, 'All the days of thy life shalt thou labor?'"

Luke could see only his own views and seemed reluctant to listen to any reason.

When asked if he thought he'd die in the poorhouse, he answered.

"No indeed. Not unless you send me there."

Luke showed no preference between being released and serving the usual ten days' sentence in the workhouse. Either was satisfactory to him, he said. The court then declared that if he is sent to the workhouse again, it will be iwth the provision that he be given the hardest work in that institution.

"That's just what I want, the hardest work they've got," was his response.

TOOK MAN'S WATCH 'FUN,' LOWE SAYS

Stating that what he did was only "in fun," Charles Lowe, when given a hearing in Municipal Court this morning on a charge of larceny, confessed to taking a watch from Roy Brown's pocket when he met him on the street several days ago. Lowe was held in $300 bail for court.

Brown testified that he was talking with Lowe on the street when the latter asked him the time. Not waiting for Brown to answer, he pulled the latter's watch from his pocket, looked at it and then apparently placed it back into its owner's pocket. Later, however, Brown discovered that all Lowe had left was his chain.

Lowe admitted this, but said that it was only "in fun." He confessed also to pawning the timepiece.

HUGHES LOOMS FOR PRESIDENCY

tion professed confidence, in spite of Borah's words, that he and Johnson would not prove troublesome.

"Johnson will stand for any plank we want to give him," said one of the party leaders. "He isn't going to get the kind of plank he wants, that is certain. There will have to be a compromise, of course, but prospects are good that it will be worked out."

The peacemakers said the Hale-Kellogg-Lenroot group threatened to be more troublesome than the Borah-Johnson faction. The Hale group has put its foot down hard on acceptance of the treaty plank adopted by the Republicans of Indiana as a model on the ground that it goes too far in repudiation of the league of nations idea. A modification of the Indiana plank has been favored by party leaders as the basis of the proposed compromise.

The Hale group has demanded that the plank first declare opposition to the league covenant as submitted by President Wilson; second, that it charge the President with responsibility for failure of the Senate to ratify and third that it approve ratification with "Americanizing reservations."

One suggested means of compromising the differences is the inclusion in the plank of a declaration of adherence by the party to the doctrines and policies of Washington, Madison and Monroe. The compromisers argued that such a declaration could be construed by every faction to suit itself. Borah and Johnson, for instance, would construe adherence to these policies to mean that the United States must stay out of the league entirely; Hale, Kellogg and other reservationists would construe it as meaning American participation in the league with Lodge reservations.

This sugar is not added in making but is developed from these grains by processing and long baking.

This decreases your sugar requirements, for the average cereal needs sugar for greatest palatability. Grape-Nuts needs none.

Bear this in mind when you order your cereal and ask for Grape-Nuts.
