

SUNDAY

Morning—University Presbyterian church, 15th ave. N. E. and E. 47th st.—Eighty anniversary celebration of occupancy of present site. Two missionaries from China address evening congregation.

11 a. m.—First Methodist church—President John W. Hoffman, of Ohio Wesleyan university, speaks on "Fundamentals of Leadership." He occupies pulpit at University Methodist church in the evening.

3:30 p. m.—Y. M. C. A.—Community sing, led by W. H. Howell, followed by talk on "Unusual Wisdom," by Rev. W. R. Randolph.

7:30 p. m.—Green Lake Methodist church—Screen pictures of "Life of Christ."

7:30 p. m.—Pilgrim Congregational church—Mrs. Sarah Andrews Thornton gives dramatic readings from "The Hiding Place."

7:30 p. m.—Madison St. Methodist Episcopal church—Temple church program.

8 p. m.—People's church, Madison club auditorium, Arcade building—Address on "The Message and Gift of Abraham Lincoln to the World."

Dog Guards Truck; His Master in Jail
Tom Simper, 40, a wool dealer, who was arrested Friday for a violation of a traffic ordinance, had his collie dog considerably worried Saturday. While Simper spent the night in jail, the dog stood guard over his master's truck, which the police parked near the station. Simper was released shortly before noon, and the dog barked his relief.

TONIGHT

8 p. m.—Labor Temple Annex—Workers' College Players repeat "Arms and the Man."
8 p. m.—Meany hall, university campus—Seattle Symphony plays "pop" concert. Spargur string quartet plays.
8 p. m.—Carpenter hall, 1618 Fourth ave.—"Spider web" social to raise funds for a home for aged deaf, under auspices of Puget Sound Association of Deaf.
8 p. m.—Co-operators hall—James Duncan campaign committee.

M'CORMICK SOON TO LEARN FATE

California Murder Case Now in Hands of Jury

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Feb. 21.—The fate of Frank A. McCormick, on trial for his life here for the murder of Charles A. Brown, wealthy Yuba sheep raiser, was given into the hands of the jury this morning.

Special Prosecutor Carlin had finished his closing argument an hour after court convened and the case then was submitted to the jury. McCormick's sister, Mrs. Fred J. Wilson, recently was acquitted of Brown's murder. It developed at her trial that she had fired shots into Brown's body after the latter had been killed by a bullet fired from a rifle held by McCormick.

MONDAY

Noon—Room 3060, Arcade building—Professor R. C. Poincaré speaks on "The Indian Yogi."

10 a. m.—Frye hotel—State central democratic committee meets.

2 p. m.—Women's University club—Dr. Ida Smalley MacLean, English scientist and secretary of the International Federation of University Women, will address the club.

7 p. m.—Masonic club, Arcade building—Roland Hartley addresses state chapter of the Sons of American Revolution.

8 p. m.—Woog's hall—Duncan campaign meeting.

8 p. m.—Seattle Pacific college, Third ave. W. and Nickerson st.—Political candidates address Ross Improvement club.

She Traps Burglar With Can of Fruit

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Holding a can of pineapples ready to heave at him if he moved, Mrs. George K. Shoor, sister-in-law of "Billy" Sunday and wife of the president of a film company, today held a prowler at bay in the basement of her home while the family chauffeur summoned the police. The intruder, Harry Fisher, explained he was thirsty and thought he was in a friend's cellar.

BUTTE.—Women investigators charge low wages to store girls causing increase in immorality.

WASHINGTON.—Beer and wine permit introduced in bill as amendment to "dry" law.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT EALY CASE STARTS ON PAGE ONE

ing due to the third degree tactics employed by Patterson and Detective Capt. Tennant.

There was more evidence against "Pat" Dreyer than against Mrs. Nemitz," he said. "The reason for charging Mrs. Nemitz was to discredit her testimony. They thought if they could link Mrs. Nemitz with the crime, they could lessen the credibility of her testimony when she took the stand to help free her son."

"There is not one scintilla of evidence against her."

He pointed out that everything the state had proved had been admitted by the defense without proof being demanded. He said there was nothing to arouse suspicion in the walk taken by the defendant and Mrs. Bryan on Sunday afternoon.

That the state had followed a wrong lead in looking for the murderer, was his contention. He brought out the fact that $1,700 of Mrs. Bryan's money was unaccounted for, as indicating the crime had been committed by someone other than the man on trial.

The story of Mrs. Anna Nemitz, the accused young painter's mother, herself a co-defendant until freed by the judge, was the last stroke of the defense to prove the state's charges groundless. It was a story of mother love, simply told and filled with pathos on the witness stand Friday afternoon.

The defense rested at 3:50 p. m. Several witnesses were called and testified for the state—ones to show that the "Mysterious Pat," A. J. Dreyer, did not leave the city as hurriedly after the murder as the defense had intimated in its efforts to connect him with the crime instead of Ealy.

J. H. Barton, commercial agent for the Pacific Steamship company, brought to court the way bills of the steamer President, which sailed for San Francisco on October 22, three days after the murder.

STATE SCORES IN REBUTTAL TESTIMONY
"Was there a passenger on that boat named A. J. Dreyer?" asked Deputy Prosecutor Patterson.

Barton consulted the way bills, and answered: "Yes, sir, Room 125. To San Francisco. The boat left here at 11 a. m."

The defense had sought to show Frank Koepfl were recalled to the South the evening after the body of the murdered woman was discovered and before it had been identified, having first told acquaintances he guessed "Fay would be arrested, as he was running around with that woman."

Two other points were scored by the state Friday afternoon. Deputy Coroners Howard MacDonald, and Frank Koepfl were recalled to the stand and identified two gray silk gloves as those of Mrs. Bryan. They had been turned over for safe keeping to the coroner's office, the witnesses said, by Patterson himself.

This cleared up the mystery of a glove of the same sort that defense witnesses testified they had seen in the home of S. W. Unsworth after the murder.

The other point was made on cross-examination of Ealy. He had said the first he knew that a woman's body had been found was on Monday evening, when he and his mother returned from Bremerton to Seattle and he bought a copy of The Star and read an account of the mystery.

HAD "NEVER SEEN MURDERED WOMAN"
The paper did not have the woman's name, did it? asked Patterson. Ealy replied:

"No, sir. They hadn't identified the body."

"About all there was in that story, then, was a description of the murdered woman?"

"Yes, a description."

He was arrested later that night and quizzed about Mrs. Bryan, but, he said, did not know why.

When Mrs. Nemitz took the stand, the crowd in the benches strained their ears and sat in rapt attention, eager to hear each word. An elderly woman who had come to court on crutches, and was unable to get thru the press of people at the doors, was suddenly recommended by the judge. He called to Major A. J. Jones, the bailiff.

"Major, go out and see if that old crippled lady is out there. If she is, let her in. She wants to hear this trial, and I guess she has as much right in here as anybody."

"Mrs. Nemitz," asked Attorney Walter Fulton, "did you know Mrs. Bryan?"

"No," she replied, in a voice that was little more than a whisper. "I never met her."

"Speak louder, please. Did you ever see her?"

"Never."

SAVES HER SON DID NOT LEAVE HOUSE
"I call your attention to the evening of October 19 last. What happened at your home?"

(October 19, about midnight, Mrs. Bryan was murdered.) Mrs. Nemitz replied:

"I had been downtown. About 9 or 10 I came home. My son came home between 11 and 11:30. We were sitting at the table, my husband and I. He was reading; I was knitting. My son came in and chatted a while and went to bed. I know he was not out of the house that night. Our rooms are across the hall from each other. The doors are always left open between at night."

On the day following, Monday, she testified, she and her son went to Bremerton to look at some property there. They had been talking of selling it. Our property she owned before her marriage to Nemitz, she said, and she always had considered it as belonging to her son.

"What did you do when you got back home from Bremerton that evening?"

"My son and I played cards. We were both in bed asleep when Sergeant Comstock and some other officers came and took my boy away. He kissed me goodbye. I didn't know what was the matter, but the first thing I thought of was to go to the deposit vault and get some money to bail him out if I could."

SHE LIED TO SHIELD HER BOY
"What did you do at the vault?"

"I got the box." Her voice quavered.

"Then what?"

"I opened it. I—I opened the box."

Here, for the first time since

STRAND THEATRE

Now Here—The timeliest comedy of the year. Original, unique, funny, and down to February, 1920—a laugh for wets, dries and neutrals—laid in a home-brew pantry—

THE SIX BEST CELLARS

"Darn the Drought! Let's Go!"

It's good to see, no matter how you stand on prohibition! It's something you can laugh at without scruple. And the ending is left to the audience itself!

STRAND ORCHESTRA

Under S. K. Wineland, playing Kreisler's waltz, "Love's Joy," Xylophone solo by Charles Fisher, "Bonnie Scotland."

QUENTIN QUIDNUNC

DAILY HE ASKS A QUESTION OF FIVE PERSONS PICKED AT RANDOM

TODAY'S QUESTION

What is your favorite book?

ANSWERED

MARY PLATTER, 5524 16th ave. N. E.—I couldn't think, right on the minute. We like William Allen White awfully well.

MRS. J. B. REYNOLDS, 4310 Linden ave.—That's a pretty hard question to answer. I like Burrough's nature essays, I believe, about as well as anything I read.

MRS. R. C. RHOTON, 2563 Fifth ave. W.—Well, I haven't had much time to read during the last four or five years, so I'm really not familiar with most recent fiction. But, in fiction, I believe I like "The Garden of Allah" as well as anything.

MRS. LENA PARKS, 817 30th ave. S.—"Ivanhoe" is our favorite book. In fact, we like all of Scott's works.

ALICE B. MURRAY, 507 Pine st.—Well, the book I read the most is the telephone book.

Man and Girl Are Arrested in South
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 21.—H. A. Cobey, 29, and Miss Goldie Abbott, 19, were arrested in Long Beach early today and brought to the county jail here on a charge of violating the Mann act.

It is understood the couple recently came to Southern California from Medford, Ore.

FUNERAL SERVICES for W. H. Wright, 222 Orcus st., who died of influenza, were held under auspices of the Red Men at Georgetown Undertaking parlors at 2 p. m. Saturday.

"U. S. S. Recruit" Must Now Move On

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The U. S. S. Recruit, the miniature battleship "anchored" in Union Square, must "move on," park department ordered. She may cruise to Scrap Heap or another city.

For Colds, Grip or Influenza And as a preventive, take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. Look for E. W. GROVE'S signature on the box. 30c.

TONIGHT

MEANY HALL

SEATTLE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

JOHN SPARGUR, Conductor

Featuring the Spargur String Quartet

IN A VERY

Brilliant Program

Take either Cowen Park, University or Ravenna car

Concert Begins at 8:20

PLEASE BE PROMPT if you wish to be seated before the program begins.

Gospel Auditorium

Seventh—Near Pike Sunday School and Bible Class at 9:45 a. m. At 8 p. m.

H. A. IRONSIDE

Author, Editor, Teacher, to discuss subject entitled, "THE CLAIMS OF THE LORD JESUS CHRIST"

Also every evening during week. This is the chance of your life. COME! COME! COME!

REV. M. A. MATTHEWS

will preach a sermon Sunday morning entitled,

SAINT, SERVANT, SOVEREIGN

In the evening he will discuss the subject, vs.

CHRIST

PHARISEES

PROGRAMS OF EXCELLENT MUSIC

A WELCOME FOR ALL

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Seventh and Spring

COLISEUM

NOW HERE

The lovely star whom you saw in "The Thunderbolt"

KATHERINE M. DONALD

THE BEAUTY MARKET

A Drama of Society People who Think

When the human race dwelt in caves, man stalked his mate with club or stone hatchet—clipped her on the head and dragged her off to his lair to be HIS woman; to fetch and carry and bear his children.

What about woman today? Does man still stalk her—not with club necessarily—but with the lure of gold and position?

How many Seattle women have been crucified on a cross of gold?

See the play. It has the solution to the question of marriage for gold or love.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

31 Artists under Reginald Dunn,

playing Victor Herbert's

"American Fantasy"

MALOTTE on the WURLITZER

"Danse Orientale".....Lubomirsky

"Song of the Boatmen".....Russian Melody

"Anthem".....Felix

"You're a Million Miles From Nowhere".....

CONCERT—1:30 SUNDAY