WILL DUDLEY STEP DOWN?

ASKED TO TURN OVER HIS BOOKS TO THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Resisting, However, Mayor Cooper's Attempt to Remove him from Office, on the Ground that his Term has Already Expired.

The Commissioners of the Fire Department have taken steps under the Public Burdens act to assume control of the Department of Buildings and reorganize it, with Superintendent Dudley out, as the Bureau of Inspection of Buildings of the Fire Department. The Commissioners have ten days from the enactment of the law within which to act, and the time expires on Wednesday next. The appropriation for the Department of Buildings for 1880 was $65,000. The new act provides that the yearly expenses of the bureau shall not exceed $40,000. Of the $65,000 appropriated, $29,000 remains in the hands of the Comptroller. As soon as the papers, books, and money are transferred to the Fire Department the bureau will be organized, with an Inspector of Buildings as the chief official. His salary is to be $5,000, and he will have two assistants, several deputies, and a few clerks. Thomas H. McAvoy, who was recently nominated for Superintendent of Buildings by Mayor Cooper, is spoken of as the coming Inspector.

The Fire Commissioners held a short meeting yesterday, and resolutions were passed declaring that "the Superintendent of Buildings be requested to turn over to the Fire Department all papers, books, records, property, leases, moneys, accounts, claims, and things of every kind and description belonging to or in the custody of the Department of Buildings or any officer or employee thereof, as required by the provisions of law contained in section 76 of chapter 335 of the Laws of 1873, as amended by section 1 of chapter 522 of the Laws of 1880, and that the Superintendent of Buildings be requested to make immediate answer to the resolutions, and to state in such answer the particular time when he will be prepared to make the required transfer; and that the Superintendent of Buildings be requested to give his consent in writing, addressed to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to the transfer of the unexpended appropriation for the Department of Buildings for the current year to the appropriation for salaries and other expenses of the Bureau of Inspection of Buildings of the Fire Department for the current year."

In notifying Superintendent Dudley of the action of the Commissioners, President King said: "Relative to the consent of the transferee requested, I desire to say that a prompt compliance therewith on your part may greatly facilitate the proposed transfer, and I therefore request immediate action thereon."

In the matter of the Mayor's charges against Henry J. Dudley, Superintendent of Buildings, yesterday afternoon was assigned for a hearing, and the Mayor's office was full of politicians and ex-employees of the Department of Buildings at the hour when the hearing was to commence. Mr. Roswell D. Hatch appeared as Mr. Dudley's counsel, and Mr. John A. Beall of the Corporation Counsel's assistants was present as the adviser of the Mayor.

Mayor Cooper proceeded as far as "Mr. Dudley, there are several charges that have been served on you—" when he was interrupted by Mr. Hatch, who said:

"I appear for the purpose only of having served upon you a writ of prohibition, together with the affidavit thereto annexed. We will just serve them and show the original to his Honor the Mayor." So saying he handed over the documents in question and with the added information, "It is returnable on the first Monday in June," resumed his seat.

The affidavit upon which the formal writ was issued by Justice Donohue was as follows:

Henry J. Dudley being duly sworn, says.

I. On or about the 29th day of December, 1878, I was duly appointed Superintendent of Buildings of the city of New York, to fill the vacancy in the office of Superintendent of Buildings caused by the resignation of Walter W. Adams, whose term of office would have expired on the 1st day of May, 1879, but he not resigning or being removed.

II. On or about the 20th day of December, 1878, I was duly appointed to the position of the Superintendent of Buildings upon the resignation of Walter W. Adams aforesaid, whose term would have expired on the 1st day of May, 1879.

III. I duly qualified, and entered upon the discharge of the duties of such office. I am advised and verily believe that my term of office as such Superintendent of Buildings expired on the 1st day of May, 1879; that Edward Cooper, Mayor of New York, recognized the fact that my term of office expired on the 1st of May, 1879, he having nominated one McEvoy as my successor to the Board of Aldermen for confirmation, as by statute required and provided.

IV. I have since the 1st day of May continued to discharge the duties of such office, holding the same only until my successor shall be appointed, confirmed and qualified. My deputy was served with copies of papers annexed, marked Exhibit A, on the 29th day of May, 1880, at about 10 o'clock, which service I hereby accept. Before I was served with said alleged charges, copies of the same were distributed to the press, to my prejudice.

V. I am informed and believe that it is said Edward Cooper, as Mayor of New York, will, unless restrained by process of this court, proceed to remove me from my office as such Superintendent of Buildings on the 2d day of June, 1880, notwithstanding he has no jurisdiction, right or authority so to do, and notwithstanding the so-called charges contained in said paper marked A are so indefinite, vague, and uncertain that they afford no opportunity for such a hearing as is required by law to be given before removal of a Superintendent of Buildings, and notwithstanding that the said charges are and are unfounded, and notwithstanding that the said so-called charges constitute no grounds for my removal.

VI. I further say that the charges are untrue and with out foundation in fact; that no legal cause exists for removing me from my office.

VII. That my successor has been nominated by the said Edward Cooper, as Mayor, and that I am only holding over, my term of office having expired in May, 1879, and upon his confirmation by the Board of Aldermen I shall cease to discharge the duties of Superintendent of Buildings, as provided by the city charter.

The writ of temporary injunction issued by Justice Donohue, upon the basis of the representations in that affidavit, ordered the Mayor to desist from further proceedings at present, and directed the Mayor to show cause before him on Monday next, at 11 o'clock A. M., why he should not be permanently restrained from proceeding against Mr. Dudley.

The Mayor held a long consultation with Corporation Counsel's Assistant Beall, and then, first taking the precaution to reduce to writing what he was about to say, announced:

"Having been served with a writ of prohibition issued by the Supreme Court, I will desist from further proceedings in the matter until such further time as may be designated after the hearing upon the returns to the writ of prohibition."

Mr. Hatch bowed and smiled; the Mayor responded with a bow and smile; Mr. Dudley grinned all around, and the presence chamber was cleared.

MURDER ON BOARD A SCHOONER.

A Negro Seaman Killing the Captain and Cook and Attempting to Kill the Mate.

NORFOLK, Va., June 2.—At a late hour last night a party of gentlemen arrived here, bringing with them William W. Selby of Wicomico, Md., mate of the schooner Mignonette of Baltimore, from Georgetown to Richmond, with a cargo of coal. The mate says that a double murder was committed on board the schooner on Monday night on James River. He is badly wounded on the head and has many bruises about the body. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

The crew of the vessel consisted of Capt. Milton Frank, Mate Selby, a negro cook named William Gage, and a colored seaman named George Thompson, a giant in size and strength. The latter found an excuse to send the mate below, and then despatched the Captain with a pump rake. He then attacked the mate, first striking him a heavy blow on the head. The latter defended himself with a sheath knife and succeeded in reaching the cabin, where he concealed himself until morning. The negro Thompson tried to burn the vessel, and the mate subsequently heard him lower a yawl and row away. The mate remained in his place of concealment until sunrise, and then he went on deck. The body of the Captain had been thrown overboard. The dead body of the colored cook was found in the forecastle brained with an axe. The mate hoisted a signal of distress and was taken off by a fishing party, who visited the schooner and there saw ample evidence of the scene of horror which had been enacted in the blood which plentifully besprattered the deck, forecastle, and cabin. The facts were communicated to the United States authorities, and the Marshal immediately sent a crew up to take charge of the vessel. The negro Thompson has not been arrested. It is supposed that he is hiding in the swamps in Matthews County.

Father Accusing Son of Forgery.

Thomas E. Reid, aged 17 years, and James L. Welsh were before the Jefferson Market Police Court for forgery yesterday. The complainant was Reid's father, James Reid, a wine merchant of 41 Broadway. Welsh was his confidential clerk. Mr. Reid was in the habit of leaving signed checks in his check book. Early last week young Reid filled in one of these checks for $487 60 and cashed it at the Continental National Bank. He knew his father's private mark and placed it on the check. The boy did not return to his home, 247 West Forty-fifth street, that evening. Welsh was a party to the forgery, but he remained look for him. Mr. Reid was much concerned about his son's absence, and Welsh said he had heard the boy speak of going to Troy, and offered to go on there and look for him. Mr. Reid assented and gave him forty dollars to pay his expenses. Welsh went on to Troy and, meeting young Reid, they indulged in a wild career of dissipation. When the money was gone Welsh telegraphed to Mr. Reid that he had found the boy and to meet him at the Grand Central Depot on Tuesday. In the mean time Mr. Reid discovered the forgery. When the two returned to the city he accused them of the forgery and both confessed. Detectives Dusenbury and Golden arrested them. They were committed by Justice Kilbreth.

PREVENTED FROM ELOPING WITH A MARRIED MAN.

A Dramatic Scene on a Railway Train.

From the Courier-Journal.

When the night express train on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, which left Cincinnati at 6:50 last night, reached Milan, Ind., an hour and a half later, an exciting episode occurred which revealed a sensational elopement to the crowd of passengers, and aroused some very intense feeling among them. Two ladies had been occupying a seat together in the ladies' car, and seemed to be in great trouble. One was a lady of some thirty years or more, while the other was a beautiful young girl not out of her teens. As the train stopped, the older lady rose excitedly, and, seizing the girl by the arm, said:

"Come, we must get off here."

The girl declined to move, and said she was not going to get off the train. Both became excited, and attracted the attention of the passengers and the conductor, who came along at that moment. To this official the lady appealed, saying:

"This girl is my sister, and she is running away with a married man, who is on the train. I want her to go to my father, who lives here!"

This announcement created a decided flutter, and the passengers crowded around. The girl still refused to get off, and the conductor said he had no authority to compel her, as a man in the next car had a ticket for her through to St. Louis.

The elder lady was almost frantic with excitement and despair. She said she was Mrs. Schultz of Cincinnati, and the girl was Louisa King, who had been living with her a year or two, and had been intimate of late with Walter Chamberlain, the man with whom she was eloping. Mrs. Schultz suspected last evening that they were going to meet and run off, and determined to go with her sister and prevent it if possible. While this was being related the listeners and the participants were brought up to a pitch of great excitement. The girl laughed at all advice from the passengers, and her sister appealed again for assistance to compel her to get off. At this moment Chamberlain himself walked in from the other end of the car; a big, fine-looking, dashing fellow, under middle age. Going up through the crowd he told the infatuated girl not to get off, but stick to the train.

"You are a married man, and you know it," said Mrs. Schultz, "and you are a scoundrel to take this girl away."

The crowd pressed up, and some one suggested that the conductor send for an officer to arrest the girl and take her off. At this Chamberlain put his hand in his pocket, and, drawing a revolver, passed it to the girl, with the remark: "Take care of yourself with this if they try to force you."

"You dirty scoundrel," screamed Mrs. Schultz, and, raising her parasol, she struck the fellow a blow full in the face. As he recovered himself he raised his revolver as if to strike her, when a big Indianian, who had crowded up among the excited passengers, put his hand on Chamberlain's arm to prevent the blow, and said coolly:

"You wouldn't strike a lady, would you?"

"Yes, by God!" said Chamberlain, "and you, too."

"You will, will you," shouted the gigantic Hoosier, as he put his hand on his adversary's shoulder, and, wheeling him about, caught him by both arms from behind and held him as in a vise.

At this juncture Mrs. Schultz, almost crazed with the turn of affairs, dropped her umbrella, and, using her fists, struck Chamberlain in the face, blow after blow, calling him "thief," "gambler," "ruffian," and "scoundrel." The passengers watched the beating with interest, and urged her to her utmost, until Chamberlain cried out "Enough," and was released by the big Hoosier, with the quiet warning that he had better behave himself and let the girl go. Chamberlain doggedly declined to give up his prize. The crowd grew furious, and it was proposed to take him off and apply a coat of tar and feathers. The conductor had quietly gone out, and the suggestion of some of the passengers, and telegraphed for a policeman to meet the train at North Vernon. Hearing the threats of summary vengeance, he signalled the train to go ahead, and carried all of the party along, including the brave Indianian, who left at Milan, but went along to see the end of the affair.

During the run to North Vernon the foolish girl was talked with by several passengers. She laughed at the idea of going home, and said she would go with Chamberlain sometime, and it was no use to send her home.

"You know he's got a wife," said Mrs. Schultz.

"Yes, I do," said the girl, "and I know where she is, but I won't tell you."

The excitement quieted but little. On reaching North Vernon two police officers boarded the train, and, upon having Chamberlain pointed out to them, arrested him, saying:

"We love to get hold of fellows like you."

He was hustled out and carried off to the village calaboose, in the midst of a jeering crowd, and threats to give him a dose of tar. Mrs. Schultz and Miss King got off also, accompanied by the gigantic Indianian, who said he would see them to the hotel and take them back to Milan in the morning.

The gentleman who detailed these facts to the Courier-Journal, and who was an eye-witness, says he never saw such intense excitement, and that if the train had not started out of Milan just when it did Chamberlain would have been mobbed.

The same evening the girl was transferred to North Vernon, and he would not be surprised to hear of his being roughly handled last night.

Mrs. Schultz is a milliner and mantau maker at 169 Longworth street, Cincinnati. Her sister, Miss King, has been living with her for about two years past in a flat. Their father is a respectable old farmer named King, who lives three miles from Milan. He married a second wife two years ago, on which account the girl went to live with her sister. Chamberlain, it seems, occupied rooms over Mrs. Schultz's store in Cincinnati, and thus made the acquaintance of the pretty but silly girl, who was going to leave home and friends for him. Mrs. Schultz said he was a gambler and fast man, and had a wife living.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.

The first train east carried Mrs. Schultz and Miss King back to Milan, where the young lady was turned over to her papa.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

NORTH VERNON, Ind., May 31.—Upon the arrival of the St. Louis express last night, the officials arrested a traveling man, who gave his name as Chamberlain, at the instance of Mrs. Lawrence Schultz of Cincinnati, who claimed that he was a married man and was eloping with one of her younger sisters. Chamberlain was taken to the city prison and confined until this morning, when it was found that the ladies had gone, and he was released. He left on the first train for the West.

Marriage of Father Farrell's Sister.

In St. Joseph's Church, in Sixth avenue, yesterday morning, Miss Mary Farrell, daughter of William Farrell, a prominent member of the parish and sister of the Rev. Father Farrell of St. James's Church, was united in marriage to Mr. William Brennan of this city. The ceremony was performed by Father Farrell, the bride's brother, by whom, also, a solemn nuptial mass was sung, assisted by Father alter, deacon; Father Fitzharris, sub-deacon, and Father Keane, master of ceremonies. The altar was brilliant with lighted tapers and adorned with fresh flowers. When the bridal party was being escorted to the altar rail, the bride leaning upon her father's arm, the band played a gay nuptial march. The bride wore a white satin dress trimmed with raw silk, and a long white tulle veil, crowned by a wreath of jasmine and orange blossoms. There were many friends and relatives present, including about twenty priests.

The bridal party started last night for the West to be absent on a tour of several weeks.
