

CALIFORNIAN

CAN'T GET FIRST BALLOT, FIGURES SHOW

At Lowden headquarters every confidence was expressed today that the storm had been terminated with the governor's statement repudiating the Missouri delegates who received money. Fred E. Sterling, one of Lowden's campaign directors said today that "if Lowden cannot win the nomination squarely he does not want it. He has demonstrated this by his action in laying all of his cards face up on the table at Washington."

"The governor," Sterling added, "will go into the convention as the first choice of more delegates than any other candidate and the second choice of more delegates than those of all other candidates combined. I have every reason to believe he will be nominated on the fifth ballot."

Out of the confused situation one thing seems certain, and that is that the nomination will come after a record number of ballots. In the past the Republican nominee usually has been named on the first ballot. In this it required three ballots before Hughes received a sufficient number to win. This year few predict there will be a material break before the third ballot, but the final swing, they think, will not come for some ballots later.

Talk of "dark horses" has grown with the coming of Johnson. Many of the political leaders feel that if Johnson succeeds in eliminating Wood and Lowden the forces of these candidates will turn against the California and demand some other man instead of the one who has developed the strongest pressure against their respective bosses.

Total number of candidates here is expected to reach five by Saturday. Lowden, Wood and Johnson are already on the scene. Senator Miles Peindler, of Washington, is expected here today. With him will come former Senator Bourne, of Oregon. Senator Warren Harding, of Ohio, is expected Saturday. Congress is expected to finish its business before Senator Harding.

Headquarters reported overnight apparently had given Johnson a margin of one over Lowden, despite the fact the latter had gained more votes than any other candidate in the present hearings of contests. The present indicated standing of the nomination, exclusive of the 73 votes still contested, was: Wood, 245; Johnson, 167; Lowden, 166; Nicholas Murray Butler, 88; Gov. William C. Sproul, 76; Senator Warren C. Harding, 45; Gov. Calvin Coolidge, 24; Judge J. C. Pritchard, 22; Senator Howard Sutherland, 16; Senator Miles Peindler, 14; Jacob L. Hamon, 14.

understand, lived with the family at Lemon street. I was separated from my wife for over a year." La Belle said the blame for the separation upon "Valentine."

"About two weeks ago," La Belle continued, "I met my wife and a reconciliation followed. During our separation she had possession of the child. I worked as a pressman in Atlantic City and previous to that time I was in the theatrical business."

La Belle said he had secured Valentine only once before in his life.

Whether the Delaware authorities will press a charge of kidnapping against Valentine after their inquiry into the different phases of the case remains to be seen. Valentine yesterday told the Buffalo police that Mrs. La Belle suggested that he take young Edward away with him.

Kidnaping in Delaware is an offense punishable by death or life imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

7 MINUTES TO ANSWER THIS.

No. 441.

I induced a laborer to undertake the digging of the cellar of my new cottage, after giving a parlay as to terms. He wanted $7 a day, but would not guarantee to work steadily, and as steady progress was an essential feature of the job, we compromised on $8 a day with a penalty of $15 for every day he "laid off."

At the end of 60 days the job was completed, but if he had settled on the basis of our agreement, that cellar would not have cost me a single cent.

How many days do you figure he worked?

AGASSI DISCUSS

GARBAGE ODOR

Board of Health Endeavors to Find Way to Abate Nuisance

COMPANY IN PLANT LAWFULLY

It is probable a meeting will be held this afternoon by the city Board of Health, at which the problem of eliminating the odors from the garbage crematory in the Eleventh ward, will be thoroughly considered.

Absence of south winds again today relieved the residences of the Eleventh and Twelfth wards and the central sections of the city from the stench. It is realized, however, by Dr. Charles M. Hanby and other members of the board, that something will have to be done if the nuisance is to be abated and suits by indignant residents of the Eleventh ward and by the Jessup & Moore Company, which operates a soda pulp mill nearby the crematory, are to be averted.

Some light was gleaned today on the agreement made between the Wilmington Sanitary Company, which operates the crematory, and the Board of Health which retired a few weeks ago. The understanding was, it was said today, that the company was to use the present "dry" crematory pending reconstruction of the "new" one, which was burned last January. Under its contract before the city, the company was given use of the "new" crematory, which was built by the city, until the end of the contract, four years hence, when it is to be returned in as good condition as when taken over. The understanding was, it was said today, that the company was to use the present "dry" crematory pending reconstruction of the "new" one, which was burned last January.

At the burned crematory what is known as the "dry" method of incinerating garbage was employed. Garbage was reduced under high steam pressure in airtight receptacles, and resulting liquids drained off into the sewer. Thus there was relatively little or no odor.

At the "old" plant, which has been used since the fire, the "dry" method of cremation is employed. The garbage is incinerated in a large revolving drum or cylinder, the liquids and odors passing off in form of vapor from a pipe through the roof. It is this vapor carrying the odors of which complaint is made whenever south winds are blowing.

While there were persistent complaints last fall and winter of odors emanating from the new plant, it was declared, however, by members of City Council who personally investigated that these were due to the runnng of dead horses and other refuse into the crematory. Such rendering of dead animals is forbidden within the city limits.

CITY BUSINESS MEN PLAIN FISHING TRIP

Members of the Business Men's Fishing Club, of which Ellwood Souder, Sr., is commodore, held their annual spring meeting and dinner last evening in the Lambs Cafe. Plans were made for the 1920 cruise down the Chesapeake.

It was decided the cruise will start from Chaptank, Md., on August 13, and will last about ten days. A new boat has been chartered for the trip. It is a 120-foot motor launch, after the noted humorist, which is taken as a sign of a merry time. Benjamin F. MacGregor, the captain as herebefore, "Bill Nye" is twice the size of the boats used on previous cruises, and will afford much more comfort for the party, which will number about 25.

Commodore Souder presided at the meeting and dinner. Present were: Ellwood Souder, Sr., Commodore; J. Frank Ayres, secretary and treasurer; Clifford M. Stille, Jr., Edward C. Gandy, Jr., Marshall C. Gandy, Jr., R. Smith, and Dr. William E. Harris, of the medical staff; Warren Ayres, W. G. Bryan, George W. Butts, Charles H. Gray, James V. Harbeck, William E. Holland, J. Weaver Ivy, Joseph Montgomery, Harry F. Mellon, J. Dudley Robinson, Talley Smith, Ellwood Souder, Dr. James D. Saroud and William H. Vance.

ANTIS, TOO, WILL STORM CHICAGO

Anti-Suffragists from many States will appear before the Committee on Relations of the Republican National Committee, at Chicago, tomorrow, and ask that due consideration be given them and their cause, owing to the present stand that Delaware took in rejecting suffrage.

Among this committee is Miss Emory P. Passell of this city, who left for Chicago last night. Associated with her is Miss Bissell, appearing before the Republican Resolution Committee will be Mrs. R. Gibbs, of Baltimore; Mrs. Horace Brock, of Philadelphia; Mrs. John B. Burt, of Massachusetts; Miss Vezan, of New Jersey; Miss Mary G. Kilbreth, of New York, and many others.

DAILY VOCATIONAL BIBLE SCHOOL.

Daily vacation bible school courses will open June 29, in all churches of the city. It was announced at a meeting of the committee last night, in the chapel of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

The churches comprise West, Westminster, First, Central, Olivet, Eastlake Presbyterian, Gilbert, the Italian Mission, the Polish Mission, Kingswood, M. E. Church and Silverbrook M. E. Church. Classes may be held at Old Sweden Episcopal Church. The classes will be continued for five weeks.

Among those present last night were Miss Clara Mendinall, Miss Samworth, Miss Elmer, Miss Margaret McKay, Miss Broadbent, Mrs. Crawford, Miss Maud M. Abernethy, Joseph H. Hamilton, J. H. Burns, Rev. Thomas Kerr, Dr. Joel Gilliland and Dr. Charles L. Candoe.

WARNER CO. ON INSPECTION.

Directors and department heads of the Charles Warner Company made a tour of inspection of their property holdings along the Delaware river this morning. The trip was taken on one of the company's tugs and luncheon was served on board. The party boarded the tug at Philadelphia.

The Misses Pachyderm Announce Reception for duPont Co. Ladies

JENNIE HOPES TO RECEIVE IN HOTEL

Weather conditions favoring, a reception to the young women of the duPont Company will be given at noon, Wilmington time, tomorrow, at the Tenth street entrance to the duPont Building, by the elephants of the American Legion Exposition and Circus.

The Misses Lena, Julia, Jennie and Roxie Pachyderm, composing the elephantine troupe, will wear their best manners and not much else. On question of dress they are distinctly "ultra." Also they will be most gracious to receive as many of the young women of the duPont Company as care to meet them. Considering their tennage it is believed the ladies can not fail to find the receiving line.

If arrangements can be made with Ernest S. Tate, manager of the Hotel duPont, a reception also will be held by Miss Jennie Pachyderm in the winter garden of her hotel. Miss Jennie, as well as her sisters, is thoroughly accustomed to the ways of best society, having often entertained on the stage of the Hippodrome in New York, and having gone shopping with some of Gotham's social leaders in Fifth avenue. They also are graduates of the Powers' finishing school and are highly cultivated mentally.

Motion pictures of the reception will be taken by the duPont Pictures Corporation, to be shown in leading theatres of the country in connection with American Legion exhibitions and work. The picture-taking will be under personal direction of Bernard Levy, of New York, who today telegraphed for the necessary cameras and apparatus.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR PROPOSED SEWER

Plans for the raising of $475,000 for the erection of a new sewer, to avoid further pollution of drinking water, were considered last night at a meeting of the Street and Sewer Commissioners in conjunction with the Water Commissioners and the finance committee of the City Council. Although no definite statement has been made, it is thought that the finance committee would sanction the issuing of bonds to secure the required sum.

DORMITORY DEFEATS FAST-AS-THE WIND

The final game of the volley ball league of the Y. M. C. A. was played in the gymnasium last night. A series of five games was played between the Dormitory and Fast-As-The-Wind teams, the former winning the first four games.

According to the schedule for the season follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pepper	32	13	.711
Thompson	24	11	.686
Dormitory	18	27	.400
Fast-As-The-Wind	16	29	.355

FLORAL GIFT FOR MISS KEENE.

The Junior Epworth League, of McCabe M. E. Church, gave a very pleasing musical and literary entertainment in the church last night for the benefit of the church organ fund. At the close of the exercises Rev. George C. Williams, pastor of the church, on behalf of members of the league and friends, presented Mrs. Charles F. Keene, superintendent of the Juniors, a handsome bouquet of flowers, in recognition of her services in the church and league.

HEAR TALKS ON MISSIONS.

An interesting address on China was given by Miss Clara Bell Smith, at the afternoon session of the quarterly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, held in McCabe M. E. the park wharf, and owing to the fact that the park officials have no knowledge as to the depth and character of the wharf foundations they have not attempted to dredge close to the wharf, leaving a portion of the mud bank as a protection to the wharf foundations. It was this bank that caused the trouble yesterday, but the steamer was not delayed much as only one side was in the mud and shifting of the cargo caused the vessel to gradually slide off into deeper water.

ASKED TO PAY BOARD HE TRIES TO SLASH

Joniard Bruno was fined $100 and costs for assault and battery on Frank Parodis and $50 and costs for assault and battery on Mrs. Grace Brunozzi by Deputy Judge Finger in Municipal Court this morning.

According to the evidence, Mrs. Brunozzi asked Bruno last night to pay his board bill. Some words followed between them and the defendant made a lunge at the woman's face with some sharp instrument, but missed her and cut Parodis, who was sitting on a chair immediately by them, in the head, inflicting a rather severe laceration.

HEAVY BERRY SHIPMENTS.

For the first time this season the daily shipment of strawberries yesterday exceeded the shipment of the corresponding date last year. The shipments yesterday were 300,078 quarts as compared with 263,391 quarts shipped on the corresponding date of last year.

The total shipment to date this year is 1,129,803 quarts as compared with 2,220,441 quarts for the corresponding month of last year.

POW WOW AT CLAYMONT

Many Wilmingtonians will attend the annual pow wow of Massachusetts Tribe, No. 56, I. O. R. M., which opened at Claymont yesterday and will close tomorrow. The pow wow will be a continuous performance of shows, sports, Indian village and original dancing, accompanied by a jazz band. F. B. Son of General Obregon Writes Local Friends From Mexican Capital

Formerly Employed BY DUPONT COMPANY

Guillermo Obregon, Jr., son of General Obregon, a prominent figure in Mexican military and political circles, writes to friends in this city that in spite of the revolutionary upheaval in that country, everything is well in Mexico City, the capital. He was formerly employed here by the duPont Company.

This information was received today by John S. Russell, president of the Security Trust and Safe Deposit Company, and other friends of the Mexican, in a letter dated May 29, briefly informing him that he and his family are faring well and that Mexico City is not as bad as it might be in its crisis.

Mr. Obregon's letter caused much gratification to the many friends he made while employed in this city. It was feared by some that as a member of the Obregon family, he would fare badly with the former Carranza government. Mr. Obregon, who studied law in France and is now practicing in his native city, he came here about four years ago. At that time the Obregon family, partaking in an insurrection, was ill-favored by the Mexican government and he and his family sought refuge in this country.

Possessed of an amiable temperament it was not long before he established many acquaintances and was employed as a translator at the duPont Company.

He exclaims, who is in his latter thirties, left for Mexico City last fall. He played an interesting part in the politics of his country and was a member of the Senate. His wife is a daughter of a former vice president of Mexico.

SUFFRAGISTS

of voting as death alone could now do that.

"During my lifetime," said Mrs. duPont, "I have seen the support of woman suffrage grow stronger and stronger and the opposition grow weaker and weaker until today the opponents are recruited mainly (but not entirely) from the aged, the ignorant and the obstinate. In the latter connection it is interesting to recall that in 1774 in a speech before Parliament in defense of the American colonies and protesting against the injustice of taxation without representation (which is the fundamental principle of woman suffrage) Edmund Burke exclaimed, 'Obduracy is certainly a great vice and in a change of state of political affairs it is frequently the cause of great mischief.' The words of Burke apply to the Delaware Legislature today as fittingly as to the action of George Third in connection with the American revolution. But I feel sure another State will act where Delaware has failed and women will vote in November."

QUEEN FROWNS ON BARE BACKS

LONDON. (By United Press, Mail).

Queen Mary is branching out as a modiste.

In order to prevent any barebacks from attending court functions, Her Majesty has designed a number of evening frocks which she considers suitable. Dressmakers, or ladies about to attend court, are asked to inspect them and for this purpose they are now being exhibited in the Lord Chamberlain's office, St. James Palace.

The Queen's designs show a broad-minded desire to compromise between the elaborate dresses of the past and the drawing rooms and the advanced undresses of today.

Long trains and feathered head-dresses are ruled out, and by the economy Her Majesty contrives to retain a suggestion of sleeve and sufficient material to cover part of the back. As an official of the Lord Chamberlain's department put it to the United Press:

"The designs are modern, but not ultra. A generous V is allowed in place of the bare-back and the three styles dresses are designed for a debutante, a young married woman, and a dowager. Quite a number of debutantes are voting in favor of the charming low-necked frock allotted to the dowager. In each case the style extends to about one-third of the way to the elbow and there is only the slightest suggestion of any covering of the shoulder."

Because it is Her Majesty's wish to encourage economy until such time as the country shall have become more prosperous, she is dispensing with the trains, bouquets, tiaras, etc., which were part and parcel of the drawing rooms. Those who have them may wear them, but they are not to be considered as essentials.

Performing feats solo is fine business, but when two or three others join in and make it a medley it keeps any able-bodied press agent busy to hold the spotlight on his client.
