LOCAL NEWS.

Brief Mention.

Mrs. Hunter has an Easter opening of Spring Millinery at No. 119 Orange street on Wednesday, March 24.

The Reporters' Association has its annual meeting at the Elliott House on Friday. A large attendance is expected.

The 250th anniversary of the organization of the Congregational church at Windsor will be celebrated Tuesday, March 30.

Colonel Healy, of this city, states that he has a $100 Confederate bill, which he will put up to be disposed of for the poor of Ireland.

A reception takes place in room No. 6, Washington school, Miss C. C. Jones teacher, on Thursday afternoon, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

The resolutions and silver ice pitcher presented by the Governor's Foot Guard to Captain Phile have been placed on exhibition in the window of Leigh & Prindle's clothing store on Chapel street.

One hundred new coal cars were turned out last week at the Hartford shops of the Consolidated road. This is said to be the most rapid work in the construction of cars ever done in a railway repair shop.

The Ladies' Seamen's Friend Society meet this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Cowles, No. 503 Chapel street. A full attendance is desired. The advisory committee have a report to give also. It is understood that the erection of the proposed bethel for the benefit of seamen visiting this port has been agreed upon.

An exceptionally fine free-hand crayon portrait of an Italian boot black of Montreal is attracting great attention in the window of Peck's book store on Chapel street. It is the work of Prof. Cargill, of penmanship fame. A pair of handsome eyes looking out from under a dilapidated hat gives the picture a special attraction.

A Fatal Drug.

Nellie McEwen, a Colchester girl, sixteen years old, drank half an ounce of the oil of tansy Saturday afternoon and died a few moments later. It is not known whether she took the drug by mistake or design.

Fair Haven.

A concert takes place at the First Congregational church to-morrow, Wednesday, evening, given by the Lowell-Mason Society, assisted by Miss Field, soprano, George F. Robinson, pianist, Mr. Wood Bush of the B. Quartette, and Misses Sanford, Seeley, Thompson and Mandeville.

Gas Lamp Reflectors.

The American street light reflector has been attached to the lamps respectively at the corner of Church and Center streets and in front of the City Hall. They are highly spoken of by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. W. A. Currier, of No. 5 Cambridge street, Boston, Mass., is general agent.

Killed by a Fall.

William Babbington, a young man employed on the farm of John T. Allyn on the Norwich road near New London was fatally injured by falling from a ladder at noon yesterday. He lived about two hours after the fall. He was 23 years of age and leaves a widow, but no children.

Schooner Aground.

The schooner Neptune's Bride, of Calais, Maine, 260 tons burthen, from Port Jefferson to Providence, with 300 tons of coal, struck Southwest Ledge about eight o'clock Sunday morning, in sailing out of New London harbor, where she had lain during the bad weather of Friday and Saturday, and is now bilged She may be floated if fair weather continues.

Religious.

Sunday evening the upper chapel of the First Congregational church was well filled, nearly every available seat being occupied The meeting was devoted to temperance. Mr. Samuel Thrasher, the reformed sailor, addressed the meeting, giving some of his own personal experience. He made an earnest appeal to the young. The meeting was led by Brother Miles Tuttle. Rev. Mr. Hart occupied a seat upon the platform and took part in the services.

Much interest is being felt in the religious work of the Baptist church in Waterbury, and at the special meetings held throughout last week a number of conversions were noticeable.

Death of a War Veteran.

Gustave Rodsriquez died at his residence, No. 48 Union street, yesterday morning, after a long and painful illness. The immediate cause of his death was rheumatism of the heart, although his death was hastened by a complication of diseases with which he had been long afflicted. The deceased came to this country from the West Indies when quite young, and for many years was a clerk in the grocery store of Thomas H. Fulton, located at the corner of Columbus avenue and Christopher street. At the breaking out of the war he enlisted in Company I, Fifteenth regiment, C. V., and went to the war as first sergeant of his company. He was afterward promoted to be second lieutenant, which position he held at the close of the war. His old comrades will attend his funeral from 81 Hamilton street this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

An Old Relic.

Yesterday an old sign was brought to light which had been lying for years in a large pile of boards, pieces of boxes and other stuff in the attic of the building where Mr. L. W. Cook has had his dry goods store. Mr. Cook's men, in clearing out and packing up, preparatory to his removal of his business from this city, dislodged the old pile of stuff, and it was placed on the sidewalk for removal, and sold for a song to a colored applicant for kindling wood. The old sign was in immediate danger of irrevocably disappearing, when Mr. C. W. Bradley, of the Florence House, passing by, espied it and called a reporter's attention to it. The sign was soon purchased by F. W. Babcock, the attorney. It was a relic of the early years of newspaper publishing by his father, the late James F. Babcock, and bore upon it the legend "Palladium and Republican. James F. Babcock, Printer. Up Stairs."

Owen McGrail's Body Found.

Floating in Mill River in an Upright Position—The Remains Sent to the Almshouse—A Coroner's Jury to be Summoned.

It will be recollected that on the night of February 15th the night switchman on duty at the "Tin bridge" over Mill river saw a man who was crossing the bridge fall into the water. He reported the facts in the case, and a day or two after it was ascertained that Owen McGrail, who with his family lived at No. 200 East Chapel street, was missing. The friends of McGrail made several efforts to find the body, but without avail. Yesterday afternoon a little daughter of John Welch, who lives at No. 46 View street, was missing, and the mother, fearing that the child had fallen into the river, walked along the banks in search of her little one. While doing this she saw what proved to be a body floating in the water. Nothing could be seen but hair floating upon the top of the water, but supposing it was her child, Mrs. Welch gave the alarm. Officer Leyerzapf was notified, and securing a boat and the services of Patrick Lynch, rowed out to the place indicated and secured the body, which proved to be that of Owen McGrail floating upright in the water. Word was sent to the police office by telephone, when Roundsman Smith and Acting Coroner Hugh Dailey repaired to the locality, which was about one hundred feet above the bridge. By orders of the coroner the body was removed to the station house, and from there was taken to the almshouse. The coroner directed a jury of inquest to be summoned to meet at the police office this morning at 11 o'clock. The jury will proceed to the almshouse, and after viewing the body will hear evidence and render their verdict, which will probably be that the deceased came to his death by accidental drowning. The family of McGrail have removed from their former residence on East Chapel street and up to a late hour last night their present whereabouts had not been ascertained.

Railroad Interests.

It is stated by the Parallel road people that probably the contract for building the new line will be given by May 1, and work is expected to be begun as soon as possible. A gentleman prominently interested said that the work would be done on a cash basis and would be completed in eighteen months. The purchasers of the right of way are still at work, and the surveying party laying out the line is well toward New York.

The College Canvass.

After a very thorough canvass of all the principal American colleges the following recapitulation is obtained: Total number of votes, 6,715. Totals for the leading candidates: Blaine 2,051, Grant 1,279, Sherman 990, Edmunds 262, Bayard 1,071, Tilden 182, Seymour 96. It is but fair to say that from the votes taken in the earlier part of the canvass no inference can be drawn. Neither at Harvard nor Yale were the votes cast with anything like intelligent forethought. At Yale the votes were taken during the hours of recitation in a somewhat careless manner, and should a vote of the colleges be taken to-day a far different result would probably be obtained. At Harvard the vote of the college was influenced in a great measure by the college press, many students voting for a candidate because he was "all the rage" and it was the fashion to vote for him.

A Sunday School's Fiftieth Anniversary.

The Sunday school of the South Congregational church, Bridgeport, commemorated its fiftieth anniversary Sunday evening. The occasion was highly interesting. The church was crowded. The three hundred children of the Sunday school marched to the church from the chapel. There was a fine display of flowers. Included in the exercises was the reading of a paper by L. B. Silliman, secretary of the school for ten years. Following Mr. Silliman's paper brief remarks were made by Mr. S. W. Baldwin, a former, and until within a year a teacher. Mr. Baldwin stated that three of the eight persons who organized the first Congregational church in San Francisco were from the South church. Addresses were also delivered by Thomas Lord, of Chicago, superintendent of the school from 1850 to '55, Edward Sterling, for sixteen years superintendent, and Mr. E. F. Strong, the present superintendent.

Grain Arrival from Chicago.

Yesterday's New London Telegram says: The Italian bark Pietro Accame, in this port, is being loaded with corn, consigned to Lyon & Co., Cork, Ireland. Eleven cars, each containing 500 bushels of corn, arrived at the Northern road pier Saturday afternoon, and yesterday morning the work of loading the bark began. Three cars are unloaded at a time, seven men being detailed to each car, and it is estimated that in every ten "working hours" 6,000 bushels of corn can be put into the vessel. The work is primitive in its style, baskets passed from hand to hand being the mode of transfer.

The bark will take across about 35,000 bushels of corn. If the grain arrive uninterruptedly from Chicago the loading will be completed as early as Sunday, and the bark will depart at the earliest possible moment thereafter.

It is probable that by Tuesday increased facilities will be at the command of the road and that at least 10,000 bushels of grain can be handled in a day.

Hoyt.

It is said that Hoyt, under sentence for death, is rapidly declining. His health has been poor for several months. It is said that he is anxious to die, even by hanging, rather than go to State prison for life. The Farmer says: Judge Carpenter, of the Supreme Court, on Saturday gave it as his opinion that the prisoner's only chance now to escape the infliction of the death penalty by hanging is by application to the present session of the Legislature, the statute providing that the Governor can only respite in such cases between the time of conviction and the next session of the Legislature, which time he claims to have already passed. Judge Park also gives the statute the same construction. Some lawyers view the statute otherwise, however, and claim it to mean between the time of final conviction and the next session of the Legislature. This, if correct, will afford time for Hoyt's counsel to appeal not only to the present session, but to the Governor thereafter, in case the present Legislature refuses to commute the sentence. Should application be made to the present Legislature and fail of favorable consideration, the Governor will probably be appealed to, under the second construction of the statute above spoken of, as a last resort to delay the execution.

Personal.

Ex-Governor Jewell has been in Washington since last Friday.

Rev. Dr. Kleeberg lectured before the K. O. J. society Sunday evening, on "Education."

Rev. Mr. Lasby, of the North M. E. church, Hartford, has had a year of hard work at it, but he has succeeded in reducing the debt from $16,000 to $4,000.

Conductor Oscar Whitcomb, of the Connecticut Central road, died in Springfield Saturday of spinal meningitis. He had been a conductor on the road since its start.

Mr. Isaac T. Banks, of No. 18 Trumbul street, his large circle of friends will be glad to hear, is improving somewhat. He has been very ill for a number of weeks past.

T. Dwight Merwin, the Hartford attorney who has been with Hon. H. C. Robinson for some time, removes soon to New Milford, his native place, taking an office with A. B. Mygatt.

Mr. Stephen Buckley, of Wethersfield, on Saturday night lost by death a valuable cow and a nice steer. The former died of milk fever and the latter got cast in its stall and was dead before it was discovered.

Conductor H. E. Moseley, of the Southern road, who formerly was in the insurance business here but has lately been living at New Britain, Conn., is about taking up his residence in this city once more.—Springfield Republican.

Mr. John F. Bunce, eldest son of the late John L. Bunce of Hartford, died in Brooklyn of heart disease Sunday. Mr. Bunce was about 52 years of age and was formerly in the employ of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company in Hartford.

Building Operations.

A Fair Prospect for the Season.

The prospect is reported good by builders for a fair activity in building operations the coming spring and summer. The brick yards of North Haven ran short of brick last season and are now being taxed to the utmost to get a stock to meet demands. One concern has orders ahead for 300,000 brick, and others have large orders to fill. The new building just erected by O. B. North & Co. took 225,000 brick. The building extends from the old part all the way to Greene street, making an extensive frontage for the concern. The roof is now on, and the interior work is being done.

A new block of dwellings is to be erected this spring on Orange street, between Elm and Wall streets, by Dr. Henry Bronson. They will have pressed brick fronts and cost about $15,000. They will be three stories high. Brown & Clark will do the carpenter work, and E. H. Sperry the mason work.

Mr. William Dann is finishing a large double dwelling house on Edward street at the head of Foster street, to contain about 24 rooms in all. The chapel formerly the Edward street M. E. chapel is the basis of the structure. Two gable ends have been added. Hubbell & Merwin are the carpenters and Mr. Sperry the mason builders.

A handsome Gothic frame house has just been erected on Pearl street, about midway between State and Orange streets. The finishing touches are now being made. It is a pleasant and sightly dwelling.

Dr. Dibble the past winter has altered over and entirely remodelled the house on Goffe street opposite the bell tower, making a very good appearing double house. The interior is almost entirely new. On the next lot adjoining he has also erected another good double house. They are quite an improvement to the locality.

L. J. Bristol, of Bristol & Son, grocers on Whalley avenue, has erected a neat barn on his lot on Orchard street, facing Dickerman street. It is convenient to his residence, which is on Dickerman street.

Within a few months a good double brick house has been erected by C. E. P. Sanford on Howe street, between Elm street and Whalley avenue.

Mr. Upson, formerly of Wallingford, has moved into his new house on West Chapel street just above Howe street, on the property formerly the Creed property.

Mr. S. Munson, the pie baker on James street, Fair Haven, is erecting a new brick addition to his premises 21x47 feet and three stories high. On the first floor he will have his office. He puts in two additional ovens, increasing the pie capacity of his establishment to 5,000 or 6,000 daily. He also has added three new wagons for his business in Meriden, Middletown and New Britain.

Entertainments.

VARIETY ENTERTAINMENT.

A variety entertainment will be given at the Grand Opera House Saturday evening of this week. Among the attractions will be a wrestling match between Mr. Richard Pennell and a wrestler from this city.

SHAUN RHUE.

This evening the celebrated Irish comedian, Mr. Joseph Murphy will appear at Coe's Opera House in the popular play, "Shaun Rhue." Mr. Murphy is an actor of more than ordinary ability, and, supported by the excellent company he is said to have, will without doubt give our citizens a most interesting entertainment. Reserved seats should be secured at the box office to-day.

THE TOURISTS.

A big audience greeted the stop-over of the "Tourists" in their palace car at the Grand Opera House last evening. The novelty of the entertainment having worn off the long waits between the acts made it somewhat tedious. The audience enjoyed the fun, however, and greeted the songs, dances and practical jokes with hearty laughter and plenty of applause, a liberal share of which fell to W. A. Mestayer, who was as usual very amusing, and Miss Rosa Cooke, "a gushing damsel with just gush enough," who sang admirably.

SELECT READINGS.

To-morrow evening a literary and musical entertainment will be given at the George street M. E. church. There will be select readings by Rev. William H. McAlister and singing by the B Quartette Club of this city. Mr. McAlister's reputation as an orator and reader are well known in this city, and added to this the musical entertainment of the well known B Quartette, it is safe to assume that a most delightful evening will be passed by those who attend. Tickets of admission, which are only twenty-five cents, may be obtained at Smith & Stone's store, corner of Chapel and Church streets; also of A. Moorehead, 363 State street; A. H. Hurlburt, 252 Chapel street, and at the door.

DWIGHT PLACE LOAN EXHIBITION.

This entertainment and exhibit of things both new and old, but especially of the latter class, is continued this week with much energy and spirit, the additions made yesterday being numerous and of great ornamentation and value. Especially is this true of the art gallery, where the oil paintings now on exhibition are valued from $15,000 to $20,000, among which are a number by prominent artists. "Mother and Aunt," by Emanuel Lutze, is valued at $1,000. This artist has two celebrated pictures, "Western Emigration," now in the Capitol at Washington, and "Washington Crossing the Delaware." Also "Moonlight," by H. Fuchsel, value $400, and "Lake George," by the same, value $300. Four pictures by William Hahn attract much attention, viz., "Boatman's Rest on the Rhine," value $500, and "Waiting for Customers," "Roman Goat Hunter" and "Log Hauling in Maine." Two by William Angus, "The First Born" and "The Return." "Joseph in Prison Interpreting the Dream" and "St. Luke Giving Alms" by Gennari, 1633-1715, are good illustrations of the ancient style of painting. "Flowers and Insects," value $300. The "Council Chamber," by Brunet Houard, Paris, and "The Good Servant", by Van Hove, are of much interest. "The Good Servant" would well represent an American queen. Eight or more pictures by Mr. H. I. Thompson attract much attention and admiration. "Ready for the Wedding" is the favorite and has the advantage of position, but the "Child's Head" holds a strong rivalry with the other. "Apple Blossoms," "Flowers" and "Twilight" each surpass "The Tramp" in the estimation of visitors only as to the character of the subject, for "The Tramp" is perfect, as well as a novelty in Connecticut.

"The Forum Romanum," "Italian Kitchen," "Tamborine Girls" and "Hope" (copy from Guido), by an American artist in Rome, are worthy of attention, as historical as well as artistic. One of the specialties is a picture which is unfortunate in position as well as a number of others, for although these rooms are finely adapted to their present use, the great number of paintings and engravings crowded into them make it impossible to give each the advantage of light, shade and position to be seen to advantage. This picture is a "Painting on a Chest or Caisson," Venice, fourteenth century. Subject: The Gauls under Brennus having taken the city of Rome (B. C. 389) and besieged the citadel, agree to ransom the city on payment of a thousand pounds in gold (about $225,000). The Gaul throws in his sword in addition to the weights, saying, "Woe to the vanquished." Camillus with 40,000 men arrives at this moment, and saying, "With iron and not with gold Rome buys her freedom," gives battle and puts the Gauls to flight. (Livy Book V.) In an historical point of view the careful study of this picture, although it is imperfect, having met with misfortune, is worth the price to the whole exhibition.

This mention of pieces might be much extended without repeating those already given in these columns as new productions, all of them deservedly noticed heretofore.

There are some fine pieces in "water colors" as well as a rare collection of engravings, some of them also in colors, as "The Deluge" and "The Destruction of Nineveh," after the painting by John Martin, of England, whose celebrated painting of "The Last Judgment" was exhibited in New York city with much favorable comment from the papers, some twenty years since. Also the "Interior Cologne Cathedral," and "Exterior" of the same.

Several colored crayons might be mentioned, but especially "On the Hudson" and "On the Connecticut," whereby people with nativity favorable to the latter may judge if the Hudson has all the grandeur in America.

If we leave the Art Gallery and go into the lower rooms, we shall find also a wilderness of items, collected in cabinets, piled on old sideboards, stands, hung on the walls or securely encased beneath moulded glass.

Among the ceramics and furniture a half hour will soon pass, especially if a seat in each of the grand old chairs, or the chairs that were the seats for the grand old people of a hundred, two and three hundred years ago, is attempted. How many people have occupied these chairs during the generations that have passed since they were made! And what expensive articles they are! To make one like some of them at the present day would drain a bank of a hundred or more dollars apparently.

The Chinese, Japanese, Egyptian and other curiosities from oriental lands are unusually numerous and could not easily be collected into an exhibition like this anywhere out of New Haven. Try it. The fragment from a slab from Nineveh with the name of Sardanapalus on it is put up in a pretty little frame and placed on a small stand, and without particular care it may not be seen, nor the inscriptions read, but the latter are in plain sight. The Babylonish, or rather the Chinese and Japanese garments are there, nor are they secreted. The idols, too, costly and artistic, although hideous in form, may be seen in Dwight Place church in New Haven. Think of it and report the pastor to the highest authorities of theologic art.

Of the Egyptian antiquities, hundreds in number, although small in size, a book might be written, and were the lamented and accomplished son of Mr. Nelson Hall of this city here we possibly might persuade him to say something of these ancient fragments in a form that would be very agreeable to the listeners.

Of rare books, documents and hundreds of other curiosities no description can be given. They must be seen to be appreciated and remembered.

The handiwork of the ladies, some of it very extravagant, for so they did things in the olden time as well as in the new, is very evident on the walls and in the cases; also the skillful use of the Yankee jackknife or some other instrument in the carving of a young ship and an elegant clock, as also many other such like things are to be seen at the Dwight Place church this week only.

Handsome Gift.

Recently Ararat Lodge of this city and Horeb Lodge of New Haven have exchanged visits and renewed personal and fraternal friendships, long formed, in a manner which has greatly strengthened the good feeling existing between the two lodges. Two weeks ago Sunday the New Haven brethren were handsomely entertained here, and Sunday night the secretary of Horeb Lodge presented to Ararat Lodge an elegantly engrossed set of resolutions acknowledging courtesies and expressing regard. The pen-work is exceptionally fine and the whole design unique. The frame is very handsome. This elegant testimonial will be on exhibition at David Mayer's during the present week.—Hartford Courant.

The Court Record.

Superior Court—Civil Side—Judge Hovey.

This court will come in this morning at 10 o'clock, when the hearing in the case of Carr & Hobson vs Clinton will be resumed. A bar meeting will be held this afternoon.

Court of Common Pleas—Judge Harrison.

This court, with jury, will resume its sitting this morning at 10 o'clock.

City Court—Criminal Side—Judge Stoddard.

James Moffatt, defrauding railroad company, $5 fine, $9.54 costs; Louis M. Zahn, breach of license law, $7 fine, $6 08 costs; Philip Ryan, breach of the peace, $1 fine, $6.37 costs; same, fornication, nolled; Ida Wilson, same, nolled; Francis McGuire, theft, $1 fine, $12 20 costs; same, taking horse without permission, $10.03 costs and sixty days in jail; same, cruelty to animals, $1 fine, $8 03 costs, thirty days in jail; Matthew Fagan, breach of the peace, $7.62 costs and thirty days in jail; James Hamilton, breach of the peace, continued for thirty days.

City Court Notes.

James Moffatt was arraigned in the City Court yesterday morning on a charge of defrauding the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company out of fifty-five cents. He boarded the train at Meriden and refused to pay his fare to New Haven. He was found guilty and fined five dollars and costs.

Matthew Fagan was charged with being drunk and also with assaulting William East. The assault occurred in a George street saloon. He was fined five dollars and costs.

Lewis M. Zahn, who keeps a saloon on George street, was called upon to answer to a charge of keeping his saloon open after 12 o'clock, midnight, on March 16th. Zahn was found guilty and fined seven dollars and costs, which he paid.

James Hamilton's case, for assaulting his wife, was continued for one month, owing to the fact that his wife did not want to testify against him.

Philip Ryan was charged with assaulting William E. Gamble in a Union street saloon. Gamble testified that the trouble grew out of an overcoat of the prisoner's which he held as security for a loan. Ryan was fined five dollars and costs.

Francis McGuire, who took the team of H. H. Thompson, stole the lap-robe from the hack and abused the horses, was before the court. After hearing additional evidence Judge Stoddard fined the accused one dollar and costs and thirty days in jail each for the theft of the blanket and cruelty to animals, and one dollar and sixty days for taking the team without leave.

The Dwight Place Loan Exhibition will be open this afternoon and evening. In the evening the church choir will give a concert in the audience room, to which there will be no extra charge of admission.
