Grange Meeting.

The regular quarterly meeting of Montgomery County Grange, No. 7, was held on Saturday night last at the residence of the Grange on October 30th—forty-five delegates and a number of visitors present.

Brothers Chancy, Harshorne, John Miller, S. D. Hall and B. Bentley Thomas were appointed a committee to investigate the political regulations in Washington, which have been a nuisance to farmers selling their own produce in some parts of the city, and apparently not in others. They were requested to make a test case, if necessary, to find out just how far these police regulations are in conformity with the laws of Congress for the District of Columbia.

Brothers Augustus Stabler, H. J. Patterson and Wm. L. Ames were named as a committee to suggest some plan by which the educational features of the Agricultural Fairs of the State can be emphasized.

Brother Stabler spoke of the Agricultural College opening this year under very favorable auspices—180 pupils being enrolled, ranging in age from 14 to 25 years, and at least fifty decided for want of room to accommodate them. An increasing number of students are taking the agricultural and manual courses, and he hopes before many years the whole power and influence of the college can be in these lines.

Brother R. H. Vincent, of Baltimore county, exhibited some beautiful chrysanthemums, and spoke of their culture and of the exhibits that are being made in all the eastern cities with the idea of increasing the love of flowers among the people.

Some beautiful singing by Sisters Bell and Joy was a feature of the meeting.

Brother and Sister S. W. Beall were elected delegates to the meeting of the State Grange in Baltimore on December 16 and 17. Brother and Sister R. H. Miller alternates.

Dr. Augustus Stabler was asked to tell of his experience with alfalfa, and said on the 21st of May it was 32 inches high and was cut, but the dry, cool weather was hard on it, and it turned yellow, but a dressing of 50 pounds of nitrate of soda to the acre helped it very much and it looks green and well now.

The next meeting will be held at Brighton the last Thursday in January.
