He is a busy University Extension lecturer. He lives in New York and is recognized as a great force in reform all through the country. Mr. Hall is a fine speaker and should have a large crowd out to hear him on Sunday. IN AND ABOUT THE COURTS

SHORT CALENDAR SESSION OF THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Jury Cases Assigned for Next Week.—Boston Brokers Sue Local Brokerage Firm.—Interesting Decision by Judge Prentice.—City Court Cases.

Judge John M. Thayer, of Norwich, presided at the short calendar session of the superior court yesterday. There were thirteen matters on the list for a hearing, nearly all of which went over to next week. Motion for leave to amend the complaint in the case of the Connecticut Savings bank vs. Cannon was granted.

W. H. H. Hewitt, receiver of the estate of Wooster P. Ensign, was made a party defendant in the foreclosure suit brought by the New Haven Savings bank.

The Bayard Taylor appeal from probate, which was continued until March some time ago by Judge George Wheeler at the request of Talcott H. Russell, attorney for the appellant, was the subject of a request by Mr. Russell for a further continuance. Mr. Russell said that he was rushed by counsel for the appellee and therefore had not time to prepare his case; that the appellee knew the situation and was now forcing the case to trial so as to deprive him of opportunity to prove his rights.

Ex-Judge Henry Stoddard, counsel for the appellee, when Mr. Russell had finished said: "I regret, your honor, that I am compelled to say that in all questions of fact we are in complete variance with the gentleman."

Judge Thayer good-naturedly tried to close the argument after Judge Stoddard had spoken for some time, but Judge Stoddard claimed the privilege of defending himself against the imputation of misrepresentation. In the course of this statement he called those of the opposing attorney untrue and based on mistaken premises.

Attorney George M. Gunn, associated with Judge Stoddard in the case, also desired to speak, but Judge Thayer cut off the talk by assigning the case for three weeks from Tuesday.

SUPERIOR COURT JURY CASES.

Judge Thayer has assigned the following cases for trial before the jury in the civil side of the superior court for next week:

Tuesday—Benham vs. Woodward; Stein vs. Coleman; the Shelby Tube Co. vs. Dann.

Wednesday—Hugo et al., appeal from probate; Harris, appeal from probate; Dillon & Daughass vs. Lee & Hoyt; Preyer vs. Bronson; Morris vs. city of Ansonia; James vs. Reynolds; McCarthy vs. Smith; McCormack et ux. vs. same.

APRIL CRIMINAL TERM.

Sheriff A. B. Dunham and his deputies have summoned the following persons to act as jurors in the criminal side of the superior court for the April term, which begins next Tuesday and which will be presided over by Judge George W. Wheeler:

Madison—Edmund G. Coe, John Scranston and Irvin B. Chittenden. Meriden—E. B. Everitt, E. W. Curtis and Samuel M. Camp. Middletown—Dwight M. Atwood and Willard Dibble. Milford—Elbert N. Clark, Nathan E. Smith and Nathan Gunn. Naugatuck—Thomas J. Northrop and John J. Carey. North Branford—Dwight N. Foote and Charles E. Alling. North Haven—Hobart Blakelee, Theophilus Eaton and Julian W. Tuttle.

COMMON PLEAS COURT.

New suits were returned to the court of common pleas yesterday as follows: Smalley company vs. J. P. Phelan, debt of $800; Walter G. Bishop vs. Nathaniel H. Bishop of Meriden, foreclosure on a mortgage note of $725; J. D. Dewell & Co. vs. Andrew J. Grabb, debt of $500; Catherine Sullivan vs. Joseph B. Morse, administrator, debt of $936; the F. Hall company of Ansonia vs. Abigail H. Gilbert et al., suit on judgment of $1,277.90.

LOCAL BROKERS SUE.

The stock-brokers' offices of W. B. Foote & Co., formerly Armstrong & Co., in the Hubinger building, were attached yesterday afternoon in a suit for $380 brought by Howard Crosby & Co., Boston brokers. Papers in the case were served by Lawyer O'Connor.

The suit on which the attachment was made is for uncollected amounts due the Boston house for stock orders placed in Boston by the New Haven brokers and unpaid for. W. B. Foote & Co., as other houses in the city in the same business, have special correspondents in the large cities with whom they place orders on the market as it advances or recedes each day. Howard Crosby & Co. are the Boston correspondents for the W. B. Foote company. The suit is returnable at the next session of the superior court.

THE TURCOTT ESTATE.

In the Branford probate court Thursday Attorney A. D. Penny, representing Mrs. Octave Turcott, asked for letters of administration on Mr. Turcott's estate. He said that in all probability Turcott had been drowned and he was prepared to put in testimony bearing out this belief. He asked for the appointment of Mrs. Turcott as administratrix. Attorney Charles H. Fowler of this city appeared for five brothers of the deceased. There was no opposition to the application. Judge Foote fixed the date of the hearing for next Thursday.

RAILROAD SUE.

Judge Epaphroditus Peck of Bristol has been retained by the heirs of the late Edward L. Clapp of Bridgeport to bring a suit for damages against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. Clapp was killed in the railroad wreck at Farmington on March 1, and his heirs have not been able to effect a satisfactory settlement with the company. A brother of the dead man lives in Bristol and a niece in Plainville. Judge Blydenburgh is looking out for the interests of the dead engineer.

DAMAGES FROM A RUNAWAY.—Judge Prentice filed a decision in the superior court Thursday which is practically a victory for the defendant in the suit of Mrs. Carrie Fiske of Hartford against Mrs. Harriet A. Enders of West Hartford. The plaintiff claimed $5,000 damages and the court awards her nominal damages of $50, with costs. In his decision Judge Prentice said that the negligence of the coachman is not the master's.

CITY COURT CASES.

Louis Mangle, charged with non-support in the city court yesterday, was permitted to depart after filing a bond of $50 to pay his wife $3 a week for six months, with the threatened penalty of serving sixty days in jail if he failed to do so.

Archibald Brown, charged with entering the Fickett & Bishop shops at the corner of Grand and Railroad avenues March 24 with intent to steal, had his case continued to to-day under bonds of $500.

The most interesting case was the mutual breach of the peace and assault cases brought against each other by Anthony Spinnello, the court interpreter, and Stefano Biamelli, an employee of Sargent & Co. On March 22 the two men got into a very interesting fist fight argument on Chapel street, between Orange and Church streets. Each accused the other of being the aggressor in the fight. After some more or less slight arguments and official discussions on the parts of Messrs. Goodhart and Pond for the two men interested Judge Bishop decided that Spinnello had suffered enough at the hands of his adversary, so suspended judgment, while Biamelli was fined $5, a judgment from which he appealed.

George Miller, Samuel Hyman and Tobias Siegel, all boys under nine years of age, charged with theft of watches, chains and charms, the whole to the value of about $50, from Charles Parker and George Henry on March 23, were found guilty on these charges. Consequently a reform school complaint was substituted, the other case going over to July 2.

CIVIL ENGINEERS' MEETING

WAS HELD IN NORTH SHEFFIELD HALL YESTERDAY.

Business Session in the Morning, Followed by an Interesting Lecture on "Water Supply and Storage" by Mr. Fitzgerald of Boston.

The spring meeting of the Connecticut Civil Engineers' and Surveyors' association was held at North Sheffield hall yesterday morning, and was very well attended by engineers from all over the state, about forty being present. The business of the association was held at 10:30 o'clock when the committee on water supply made its annual report, showing the condition of the supply in nearly all the larger cities of the state. The water supply this year, notwithstanding the drought of some time ago, compares favorably with the supply of former years and the general conditions of the water, the committee reported, are good. The work done by the association during the last year was reviewed and the report showed that a large number of reservoirs have been either started or finished during the last twelve months.

The general topic of discussion of the meeting was "Water Supply and Storage," which proved a very interesting one, and one that furnished plenty of debate for the engineers.

Routine reports were heard of interest to the engineers only, and other business was transacted that pertained to the work of the association.

The business session adjourned about 1 o'clock, when the members dined as the guests of the local members of the association, and at 2:30 o'clock in room 42, North Sheffield hall, Desmond Fitzgerald of Boston delivered a most interesting lecture bearing on the general subject of the day.

Mr. Fitzgerald is one of the most prominent civil engineers in this section of the country, and his remarks were not only interesting but they were very instructive. A large number of students of the Sheffield Scientific school, attended the lecture and doubtless profited by it.

Mr. Fitzgerald is past-president of the American Society of Civil Engineers and of the New England Water Works association. He is also engineer of the Sudbury department, Metropolitan Water board. The lecture was illustrated by about one hundred lantern slides.

Mr. Fitzgerald showed pictures of the various water works and aqueducts around Boston and explained the system of their construction very minutely, so that a great deal of benefit was got out of
