VAN NESS MAKES HIS WIFE'S WILL PUBLIC

Millionaire Shows Where He Has Absolute Control of Property in Dispute.

Millionaire Cornelius Van Ness, of Cornwall, who married pretty Alice Wood, of Port Jervis, and whose relatives are seeking to restrain him from disposing of his property, made public to-day the provisions of his former wife's will, showing that he can do with the estate as he pleases. He also declares that he would fight the suit if it took his last cent.

"The will of my second wife," said he, "gave me absolute control of the entire property. I have not exhibited the will before, but I think it is time to make it public now."

It is the last will and testament of Emma L. Van Ness, dated Nov. 24, 1899, and witnessed by Francis B. Chedsey and John P. Higgins. The first clause read as follows:

THE WILL.

"I give, devise and bequeath unto my beloved husband, Cornelius H. Van Ness, all the estate, real and personal, of every nature and description, of which I may die seized and possessed, to have, hold and dispose o fthe same in such manner as he may deem proper, and he shall not be accountable to any person as to the manner in which he shall so spend or dispose of the same, but without intending in any wise to limit his use of said property or the disposal of the same for his own or another's benefit, it is my will" * * * and the will continues with the request that the property remaining at the time of Mr. Van Ness's death shall be divided into three equal shares, and given to Harriet Harmon, Marie Harmon and Emma Louise Van Ness Day, in equal shares.

"That," said Mr. Van Ness, "effectually disposes of the juestion as to whether I have the right to sell any of the principal of the etate. There is no restriction placed upon me."

Otto Pobe, the medical student who plays such a conspicuous part in the case, has at last been located. When the case was first brought into court, and letters from him to Mrs. Van Ness were produced in which he called her "wife," and which the rich old man's relatives said proved a deep-laid conspiracy, the young man vanished from his boarding-house at 293 Clinton street, Brooklyn. He returned home late last night, and an Evening World reporter saw him this morning.

He evidently had been carefully coached by his family to keep his counsel about the Van Ness affair.

He is a likely looking fellow, stout, of medium build, fair-haired and about twenty-eight.

OTTO POBE.

POBE WON'T TALK.

He blushed violently and seemed ill at ease after learning his caller's mission. He declined to discuss his acquaintance with Mrs. Van Ness. He would not deny or affirm that he had married her. "I must refuse to say a word," was his invariable reply.

He even declined to say whether he knew Frank Dolson, one of his predecessors in Mrs. Van Ness's affections.

Asked if he would appear as a witness or whether he had been so far subpoenaed by either side, the student was so mindful of family admonitions that he refused to open his mouth.

The only interest Pobe manifested in the Van Ness case before the reporter was in contemplating a picture of himself posed as a court jester. It was printed in The World. Pobe would not say where and how he had come to wear the costume, but he said the newspaper reproduction of the photo was very g

But that Pobe's romance was not the only romance in the life of lively Miss Wood, of Port Jervis, is made clear by disclosures just made.

The new romance includes an ardent courtship, an engagement, the setting of the wedding day and then the sudden breaking off of the affair for some mysterious reason, with the consequent social sensation.

But one person besides Mrs. Van Ness knows why her engagement was broken. That person is Frank Dolson, the young man whom she was to marry. He will admit but one fact, and that is that there were other men in the case and that one of them was a young physician of Port Jervis, Mrs. Van Ness's girlhood home.

Dolson now lives at 212 West Forty-sixth street, this city. He admitted his engagement to Miss Wood when asked about it.

"I may feel called on later to make a statement regarding our affairs," he said, "but that will depend upon future developments.

ALL KNEW OF ENGAGEMENT.

"Every one who knew us knew we were engaged, so there is no use in my denying it. You see, I had known her from the time she was a little girl and we had grown up together. I was certainly very fond of her or I should not have asked her to marry me.

"I was a sort of leader in the entertainments and other social affairs of the young people in our set and she was one of the most popular girls. I remember a kirmess that I took her to where she appeared in a short Spanish dancer's costume of old gold trimmed with black lace. She was certainly the prettiest girl there—at least I thought so then."

"Did you or she break off the engagement?"

"It was most certainly I who broke it off. I don't think she would deny it. The reason I do not care to state. It will be just five years next month."

"Had you heard the name of a young doctor in Port Jervis mentioned with hers at that time?"

"It was he who came between us. At least, he was partially responsible for my breaking my engagement. He was not the only one, though. There were several others."

FULL OF MISCHIEF.

Miss Wood bore an excellent character in Port Jervis, but she was full of mischief and many of her eccentricities are still recalled.

When seventeen years old she and three girl companions visited a local photographer and had their pictures taken in boy's attire, with trousers, high collars and derby hats.

She took long drives over the Pike County roads and also went on long bicycle rides with Pobe and other friends.

Van Ness has arranged to give up his beautiful home at Cornwall, N. Y., where he has lived for nearly twenty-five years, and come to New York to live. He has purchased a house on the Boulevard Lafayette. This arrangement was made very suddenly.

Dr. Koch Has Visited His American Offices.

THE GREAT CONSUMPTION AND ASTHMA DOCTOR

expresses himself as well pleased with the offices of the German-American Company, especially the New York office, at 48 West Twenty-second street, and the one at 1334 Arch street, Philadelphia. He called on the principal New York English and German newspapers and received a cordial welcome. Many physicians of note called on the great German inventor to see the new improvements in his wonderful invention, the original Koch Inhalation, which is the only apparatus used that can throw those heavy healing oils and creosote tuberculine into vapors so they can be breathed directly into the lungs in a vaporized state, so the treatment gets right to the seat of the disease. No other process will vaporize this heavy mixture so it can be breathed to heal up diseased lung tissue.

He is known throughout the whole world as the inventor of the Koch Inhalation, a cure for consumption, asthma, catarrh and bronchitis. The treatment is given at 48 West Twenty-second street, New York, where it has been for years. It is Dr. Koch's headquarters for the German-American Company for this country. In his lecture he frankly affirms that many patients treating for consumption are really only suffering from catarrhal bronchitis, a cold on the chest that goes down on the lungs and becomes chronic only from neglect; a hacking cough, a slight shortness of breath, spitting of mucus, associated with that languid, tired feeling.

Do not fill the stomach full of medicines, which do more harm than good. All of the latest improvements have of late been applied to this new Koch apparatus. Patients are invited to call and investigate.

A POLICEMAN KILLS HIMSELF.

No Reason Known Why Albert Schultz Should Commit Suicide.

Albert Schultz, a policeman attached to the Gates avenue station, Brooklyn, committed suicide at noon today by shooting himself in the mouth with a 32-calibre revolver.

He had gone to his home, 663 Greene avenue, for dinner. He greeted his wife pleasantly, and while she was setting out his meal he went to his bedroom and shot himself.

His domestic relations were pleasant. No reason is advanced for his act except that his brother, an actor, ended his life in the same manner a few months ago.

Schultz was thirty years of age. He had a splendid record as a policeman.

BABY ALL ABLAZE.

Mother Left Her Two Little Ones Alone—Played with Matches, and One May Die.

Mrs. Satrowisch, of 64 North Seventh street, Williamsburg, left her son Tony, a little over a year old, and her three-months-old baby alone in the house this morning.

Tony got some matches and set himself afire. When the mother returned Tony was nearly burned to death. He was taken to Christ Hospital and the doctors say it is a fatal case.

COURAGE SAVED HIS LIFE.

Deatwell Kept His Head and Escaped Death in a Falling Elevator.

While shooting from the seventh floor to the basement of 97 Crosby street in a wild elevator car, John Dealwell, of 9 East One Hundredth street, kept his presence of mind and saved his life.

At 9 o'clock this morning while ascending from the sixth to the seventh floor, the elevator, which is run by an electric motor, slipped a cog somewhere and began to swiftly descend.

Knowing the cage of the elevator shaft ended at the first floor, he opened the door of the car and crouched down prepared to leap when he reached the basement.

He shot out into space just in time to escape the jar when the car hit the bumpers at the foot of the shaft.

Though he saved his life, he suffered a broken shoulderblade and serious internal injuries.

FUNERAL AT OLD ST. PAUL'S

Grace Ogden Interred in Family Vault—First Burial There in Eight Years.

For the first time in eight years, according to the memory of the sexton, a funeral procession stopped to-day at St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway and Fulton street.

A woman was to be interred, a member of the Ogden family, one of the old parishioners of Trinity.

The deceased was Grace Schuyler Ogden, fifty-nine years old, eldest daughter of Richard H. Ogden, of Astoria, L. I.

The body was interred in the family vault at the western end of the church.

MYSTERY OF MISSING SON

After Thirty Years Edgar Smith Returns and Disappears Again.

EDGAR P. SMITH—Why do you not come as you promised? Suppose is killing your mother. Let me hear from you. I. C. S.

The above personal appeared in a New York paper this morning. It is a chapter in a mystery.

Thirty years ago W. A. Smith, a music teacher who lives in Passaic, N. J., resided in this city with his brother, Edgar P., and their parents. Edgar was seventeen.

One evening Edgar went to a party without the consent of his parents. Mrs. Smith chided him and he left home in a passion. From that day to this no one in the family has seen him. For thirty years he has been mourned as dead.

Thousands of dollars were spent in efforts to find him.

On Thursday last Mrs. Smith received a letter from the missing one. The letter was postmarked "Passaic," and said he had learned that his parents were living there.

"I have walked by the house many times," he wrote, "but I have been afraid to let mother see me too suddenly. Yesterday I called, but no one was at home. I will see you to-morrow."

This is the first and last communication from the missing son. He has not called, and his mother is prostrated.

DR. BEHRENDS DIED TO-DAY.

The Brooklyn Minister's Ecumenical Address Prompted Protests.

REV. A. J. F. BEHRENDS.

Rev. Dr. A. J. F. Behrends, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, died of kidney trouble at his residence, 99 Brooklyn avenue, this morning.

Dr. Behrends began to ail immediately after the adjournment of the Ecumenical Conference recently held in this city. He was a prominent figure at the big gathering, and the last day of the conference created a sensation by delivering an address in which he advocated wiping out all creeds and conducting the church on plain Biblical principles.

Ex-President Harrison and others replied to him, declaring that the suggestion was entirely impracticable.

Dr. Behrends was a churchman of advanced ideas and frequently earned criticism for radical views on a future punishment. He opposed divorce, preached against the higher criticism and often scored the Socialists.

Dr. Behrends succeeded Dr. Talmage as chaplain of the Thirteenth Regiment, Brooklyn, and during the Spanish-American war made all preparations to go to the front. He had been pastor of the Central Congregational Church for seventeen years. He was married in 1883.

His widow, three daughters and a son survive him.

GOEBEL MURDER ARREST.

John Powers, Brother of Republican Secretary of State, Taken in Mountains.

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 22.—John Powers, brother of Secretary of State Caleb Powers, was arrested in the mountains of Knox County, near Barbourville, last night on the charge of complicity in the murder of Gov. Goebel.

Powers was taken to Barbourville, where habeas corpus proceedings were begun to-day.

Found Dead in His Yard.
