

CHILEAN PROBLEM
UP TO CONFERENCE

Settlement of disputes of the Old World without giving attention to controversies of the Western Hemisphere would be contrary to the spirit of the times. Dr. Francisco Tudela y Varela, Peruvian minister to the United States, said this week in urging solution by the peace conference of the long-pending controversy between Peru and Chile as to possession of the provinces of Tacna and Arica.

Chile was charged by Dr. Tudela with keeping "in subjection the Peruvian provinces of Tacna and Arica, as well as a part of Tarata," with collecting excessive duties from the conquered territories, and with violation of the treaty of Ancon through failure to hold a plebiscite in the two disputed provinces.

HOPES OF EPICURES
RISING WITH PEACE

This has been a long, cruel war for the epicures in America. With olive oil quoted at from $10 to $12 a gallon and little assurance that it is pure even at that price, dainty salad flavors have been hard to get and spaghetti dressed with oil and garlic even more rare. The Italians and Americans who dote on their culinary art, have missed the real Italian cheese, which can only be found now in private larders and sells, when sold at all, at from $4 to $5 a pound—60 cents used to be a high price. Imported curry powders worthy the name are practically out of the market, and, of course, the canned pork and sausage delicacies from Germany and Austria are known here no more, to say nothing of the paprika and plum paste that made Hungarian famous. American imitations of foreign cheese are near enough to the real thing to pass muster, though not a few palates will be tickled with the return of Gargonola, Roquefort and the soft cream cheeses of Europe.

Now that the fighting is over there is hope for the salad devotees who have been experimenting for four long years with cottonseed oil, corn oil, coconut oil, and other substitutes for the fat of the olive. Spain has been making far more oil than her people needed, but has been unable to ship it abroad for lack of vessels. Reports from Malaga say that a good average yield of olive oil is looked for in Spain this season, the production being estimated at about 300,000 tons. The net stock of olive oil available for shipment from the two previous crops is calculated at 160,000 tons. As all available storage space is taxed to the utmost, the problem of finding storage facilities for this year's crop is causing anxiety to growers and shippers.

Our Artist's Fancy of How Tailors Will Drape the Manly FormFashion Referee Counts Out the Male Butterfly's Clothes for Regular "Champ" Stuff

By FAY KING.

Every real guy will be mighty glad to hear that the lean, lank, limp and lizzie fashions for men have been counted out, and when he changes from his Uncle Sam regalia back into the civvie he's going to be able to get a suit that ain't going to pinch in the chest and hitch at the waist.

A flock of experts who have come from everywhere, known as the International Custom Cutters' Association, are holding a convention at the Hotel Commodore, in New York, and they're just rarin' to run the nickel-plated scissors through a bolt of goods and ship out a suit of clothes that will be a joy to behold.

Now that the George Creel is off of materials that can put velvet as thick as barrel staves, embossed calling cards and box pleats in trouser legs if you want 'em, but those are all palliatives.

The main event is the fact that fellows comin' back from the war want to look like tank tammers and gun champions—so away with the chins and the pinless back.

Broad, wide shoulders, championships stuff, that's what they want. No more hanging-to-the-rope lines! Up on his toes, like an athlete, plenty of wind room if they have to put in a couple of pleats in the coat that will give like a bellows.

The pale, pasty, pattern-leather-haired, glint that looked like a real fighter that are back from over there ain't going to stand for any competition from tapestry triflers who only hold a hand of embossed calling cards and box pleats in four-round bridge bouts. I figured maybe the trouser legs would be made pretty tight below the knee 'cause it seems it's goin' to be an awful cool change from the puttees, but L. C. Tyler, who seems to be the referee on fashions at the convention, says—says no.

It's a cinch that after being in O. D. for months and months, every fellow who can is going on a perfect suit course.

It's goin' to be great to get back into something individual and expressive of his own tastes. And it will be a treat to see them stepping high and poppy in the new square-jawed, war-wist, battle-belted models.

A pair of dapper feet were scarce in the past, but a pair of fightin' shoulders is a better credential now!

But the fox trot figure is passin', so no matter how well you wear a one-step, you're got to have a punch in your make-up now to knock 'em out along the Avenue!

would be partly by expenditure of Government money and partly by direct taxation of territory benefited. Plumb said.

"It seems the consensus of opinion that private operation is to be preferred to Government operation for almost every reason," declared Plumb. "First, to take the roads out of politics, second, to promote efficiency, third, to prevent carelessness in regard to expenditures which frequently, almost habitually, accompany Government operation."

Plumb's plan is similar to that favored by Senator Cummins, who will steer railroad legislation at the next session.

Plumb wants an operating company, nation-wide, with the sole task of running the railroads efficiently.

This corporation would have no capital.

"It should be organized under a Federal law," Plumb urged. "It should be authorized to take and hold and operate these properties under the full regulatory power of the Government, to whom it should account for all of its operations and expenditures."

"A certain agreed percentage of the net results of operation should belong to this corporation. The earnings of the corporation should constitute a trust fund to be declared as a dividend upon the amounts paid to the labor which it employs, every employee receiving that proportion of this trust fund which his annual wage bore to the total annual compensation of all employees."

"Affairs of the corporation should be administered by a board of directors, which we suggest, tentatively, should be selected in the following manner: one-third of the directors to be elected by the classified employees below the grade of appointed officials; one-third by the appointed officials and employees; the dual third being appointed by the President of the United States. This board of directors should have power to appoint all officers from the President down to the point where employment begins by classification and to prescribe the condition of employment and classification of all other employees."

Profits above the fixed guaranteed return on invested money would be divided equally between the Government and the employees, each man receiving a pro-rated share of the surplus.

When the Government's profits go above a fixed point, suggested as 5 per cent on the gross operating revenue, the Interstate Commerce Commission would be required to pare rates down to absorb the surplus.

officials, and one-third by the President of the United States.

Wage disputes to be adjusted by a committee organized on the same basis.

To Share Profits.

Profit-sharing by employees out of the net revenue, one-half to go to the Government.

Rates to be lowered when the Government's share exceeds 5 per cent of the gross operating revenue.

Plumb opposed creation of a Department of Transportation under a Cabinet officer as proposed by railway executives. That would be regulating people in the interest of capital, he maintained, since it would be enforcing a Governmental policy to secure adequate return on capital invested in railroad enterprises.

Opposes Five-Year Extension.

As to the five-year extension of Government control, proposed originally by McAdoo, Plumb protested that this would mean that railroad employees, forbidden to take part in politics, would be deprived of their civic rights for five years more.

"If all of the railroads within the United States were owned by the Government as one single system, all of the difficulties now arising from reason of diverse ownership under varying charters and under the laws of the different State jurisdictions would by that very fact, cease to exist," Plumb explained. "All conflicts between State and Federal authority would be eliminated."

Local extensions into new territory.

"Gets-It" Peels My Corns Off!

Any Corn or Callus Comes Off Peacefully, Painlessly. Never Fails.

Use "Gets-It," peel off corn this way.

It's almost a picnic to get rid of a corn or callus the "Gets-It" way. You spend 2 or 3 seconds putting on 2 or 3 drops of "Gets-It," about as simple as putting on your hat. "Gets-It" does away forever with "corn" traps, "wrappy" plaster, greasy ointments that rub off, blood-letting knives, and selectors that rip into the "quick." "Gets-It" eases pain. Your "jumpy" corn shrinks, dries, loosens from the foot. You peel the corn painlessly from your toe in one complete piece. That's where the picnic comes in—you peel it off and you would a banana peel. Nothing else but "Gets-It" can do it. Get peaceful, common sense "Gets-It." Guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. MFD by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

WANT WATERWAYS
AS R. R. "FEEDERS"

The years of railroad opposition to waterways developments have been without foundation, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis declared today, at the Rivers and Harbors Congress.

This statement followed a speech by Walker D. Hines, in which he declared that American waterways must be developed and used in conjunction with the railroads. Lewis jumped to his feet, stating that Hines' remarks were a confession of the fact that this fight had been unequal for.

"The Director General was formerly a high official in one of the biggest railroad systems in the country," said Lewis. "He now confesses that the fight made against waterway improvements, urged by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, was made by the railroads for selfish interests."

This confession, he concluded, assures the country that the cause of the congress had been won and there will be no more cries of "pork barrel" and "extravagance."

VAUDEVILLE SHOW FOR SOLDIERS HERE

Soldiers are to have a special vaudeville show given them at Central High School tomorrow evening, when the War Camp Community Service will repeat many of the "hits" of their tours around the camps. It will be a final gathering "for old times' sake," specially arranged for the boys at Walter Reed, the camps near the city, and friends of the soldiers.

Izetta Jewell will be in the cast; Caleb O'Connor and his Camp Chorus; a sketch by Camille and Martin Richardson; juggling act, by S. Percy Oliver; Mrs. D. H. Kinchelo, in songs; Selma Schlinger, the "Big Little Prima Donna"; R. Woodland Gates in "A Bit of Opera," a farce sketch, "Chums," with a cast of five; Ruby Raymond, Flora Brylawski, and a special "duet" depicting the funny side of choosing acts for the camps.

Any man in uniform, with friends, is invited. Since the general public cannot be excluded under the rules at Central High School, it is requested that all soldiers be given first opportunity for seats, as the entertainment is designed for them. The very best of the camp "hits" will be featured at this entertainment.

LARGE DIAMOND WORTH
LESS THAN SMALLER ONE

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Two diamonds on display in the windows of two Chicago jewelers recently attracted much attention. One was of eight carats and was priced at $6,000. The other was of four and a half carats, and was held at $11,000. The larger and cheaper stone showed little fire or color. It is known in the trade as a "fish eye." Experts declared that it originally was a stone of poor luster, but had been cut too shallow to bring out whatever native brilliancy it had. The smaller and more expensive gem was from the Jagersconia mine in South Africa. It was a practically flawless blue-white stone, and sparkled as if it were alive with all the colors of the rainbow.

"Diamonds are an individual problem," said a dealer. "You can't always go by current trade prices. I know of a diamond of three-quarters of a carat, which sold some time ago in Paris for $10,000. It happened to be a red diamond."

TOKENS FOR DETROIT YANKS.
DETROIT, Feb. 7.—Detroit will spend $15,000 for tokens of appreciation to men in the service. That amount was appropriated by council yesterday to purchase rings, medals and testimonials.
