

HOT SHOT FIRE BY HUMPHREY

Some Points in His Answer in the Gas Injunction Case Filed Today in the Federal Court.

Corporation Counsel Humphrey today filed his answer to the bill of complaint in the suit of the Seattle Gas and Electric Co. vs. the City of Seattle, at St. Louis, Mo., pending in the United States circuit court.

The answer sets up the usual statutory denial, and among other things says: "Ordinance No. 44, which is mentioned in paragraph 1 of said bill of complaint and referred to in said bill of complaint as being an ordinance which impairs the obligations of the contract alleged to have been made between the predecessors of the complainant and the City of Seattle, does not, in terms, as alleged in said bill, repeal ordinance No. 234 mentioned therein, but merely expresses the opinion of the city council that said ordinance No. 234 is no longer of any force, power or validity, for the reason, as therein stated, that it has expired by limitation of time."

"And the defendants further say and allege that as to said ordinance No. 44, the same was drawn and prepared by Thomas Burke, one of the solicitors of the complainant in this action, at the request of and for said complainant, and while said Burke was acting as attorney for said complainant; that after a copy of said ordinance was prepared by said attorney it was by said attorney

Girl Who Ran Away With Another Woman's Husband Writes Home, and Her Lover Fully Indorses the Letter.

"Dear Auntie: Send my things to 202 Edgecombe avenue, St. Louis, and please don't forget my dolls and the doll house. I am perfectly happy and you needn't come after me. Love, Louise. Miss Ackerman will get her

AGAINST THE SLOT MACHINES

Dr. Burrows, of Fremont, Advocates a Crusade.

At the Ashbury M. E. church, Fremont, the service yesterday consisted of a memorial to the late Queen Victoria, an eulogy on the work of Mrs. Nation, of Kansas, and a setting forth of the relations of the slot machines to our city and state.

Dr. Burrows said, in part: "I fully justify the course of Mrs. Nation, and that the existence of the slot machines in Kansas is not according to law; that in there is no law or license permitting these joints, the more they are public nuisances and ought to be destroyed. It is Mrs. Nation's right, or any other citizen's right, to 'smash' them. It is the only way to do—burn the devil out; especially when public officers are derelict of duty and permit unlawful things to exist. The same holds good regarding the slot machines of our city and state. These are, according to law, a public nuisance, a gambling device having no law or permission for existence, whether played by 'card' or 'money,' and any citizen has a right to destroy these wherever found."

"In drugstores, saloons, cigar stores, or in a private office wherever found, if used for gambling purposes—that one would needs pass into private property to get to a machine, may be held by a court, and if used for gambling purposes, it is a public nuisance and ought to be destroyed. It is Mrs. Nation's right, or any other citizen's right, to 'smash' them. It is the only way to do—burn the devil out; especially when public officers are derelict of duty and permit unlawful things to exist. The same holds good regarding the slot machines of our city and state. These are, according to law, a public nuisance, a gambling device having no law or permission for existence, whether played by 'card' or 'money,' and any citizen has a right to destroy these wherever found."

YOUNG MAN WITH SENSE

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—Russell E. Gardner, a manufacturer of vehicles in this city, who started in business with $2,300 borrowed capital at the age of 19, has issued a circular in which he announces that he has made enough money, and henceforth will devote himself to getting pleasure out of life. He will from now on throw off the cares of business. In proof of his sincerity, Mr. Gardner has distributed $10,000 among his 350 employees—this being the earnings of the year 1900, in excess of the amount he had set himself to clear for that year. Mr. Gardner is 34 years old. He says he has found money-making the "easiest thing in the world."

DOWN FROM THE ELDERADO

T. Nelson, who owns a store near Grand Forks, on the Eldorado, arrived in Seattle this afternoon. "Just at present," said Mr. Nelson, "Dawson and the surrounding towns are dead. There is almost no business. It will be probably a month or two before the great rush of people arrive to see the gold camps. I expect this summer to be the liveliest that has ever been seen in that country. There are a large number of excellent claims on Gold Hill, which will soon be worked. There has been no sensational strikes lately, but the mines all around seem to be doing very well."

WOULD SEND HIS WIFE TO AN ASYLUM

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Grant and child arrived from Skagway on the Farallone today. While north their escapades furnished considerable gossip for the "sour doughs." Grant settled in Port Yukon two years ago, and last year was joined by his better half, who went in by way of Dawson. She found a husband on the premises, and the family reunion was rather chilly. She hung up her hat, however, and remained long enough to have stories of Grant's ill-treatment come down the trail. Grant told everyone he met that his wife was crazy, but those who knew her best denied that her mind was unbalanced.

A few months ago Grant learned that he had fallen heir to several thousand dollars in Ireland, and it is alleged that he decided to return to the Erin Isle, and that he brought his wife out with him, with the intention of placing her in a private asylum.

The chief of police of this city has been advised of the facts of the case by mail, which arrived on the Farallone, and he will see to it that the woman is not railroaded into an asylum, unless she belongs there.

HE STARVES FOR SPITE

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 4.—Chris C. Klusky, a Pole, aged 68, starved himself to death because he had lost a portion of his small fortune. The body was found in a dismal alley attic. For eight weeks Klusky had been eating food other than a few mouthfuls of milk and a little whiskey. He took an oath, three months ago, that he would starve himself to death as soon as he had sold his house. He sold the property for $500, gave the money to his wife, and immediately set about keeping his gruesome oath.

AMUSEMENTS.

Grand Opera House.

"A Husband on Salary," opened to large houses at the Grand. The play is a farce comedy, and as the title implies, the plot deals with the follies of a low-class young woman who condescends to obtain a husband on salary.

The work of Stephen Fitzpatrick, the old lawyer, was much appreciated, and called for repeated expressions of approval. The comedy elements of the play, as handled by C. Harrington and Ora Mullaly, the house servants. The La Brette Sisters were the star performers, and received storms of applause. Viola La Brette is a prodigy possessing a deep contralto voice. The play was apparently enjoyed by all, and remained for the week, giving the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

At the Third Avenue.

Richards and Pringle's Georgia Minstrels played to a big opening house. The show brings a large number of artists, and is a most original production from the outset. There is a remarkable absence of worn jokes and tiring manuevers of average colored minstrelsy. The Alabama quartette and the comedians Fiddler, Christian and Dick Thompson deserve special mention. Harry Fiddler's turns calls for repeated encores. Christian does excellent work on pneumatic skates, performing very difficult feats. The minstrel play the week at the Third Avenue, and will no doubt draw full houses every evening.

"The Christian" Tonight.

"The Christian" appears for a four nights' stand at the Seattle, beginning this evening. The play is a dramatization of Hall Caine's successful novel of the same name.

He paid his way through the University of Washington. Graduating in 1897, he was appointed instructor in science at Everett High school. IN THE COURTS.

Saturday afternoon at 4:50 o'clock the Cleopatra mine case went to the jury; before 6 o'clock a sealed verdict was returned for judgment in favor of the plaintiff company in the sum of $23,350.

The suit was one instituted by the mining company against E. W. Mitchell et al. for alleged non-fulfillment of contract and damage incident thereto; the company having purchased from the defendant 1888 acre quartz property near Miller river. The contract provided for installing many improvements, also an equal division of the net profits. The complaint alleged that the defendant parties had disposed of all profits to their own use and abandoned the property, refusing to comply with the terms of the contract.

Judge Bell opened the verdict this morning.

Judge Griffin granted a divorce to J. W. Laneing from Hannah Laneing. The case was out of the usual as regards the grounds for complaint. The evidence was to the effect that the defendant
