Seminary Girls Graduate.

With a recital and musicale by members of the faculty and the presentation of diplomas to the graduating students of the class of 1908 in the college theatre last Monday evening, the Chevy Chase College and Seminary closed its annual commencement exercises. Those of the faculty taking part in the entertainment were Felix Garziglia, pianist; Miss Clara Drew, vocalist, and Mrs. Tinnin, expressionist.

Prof. S. N. Barker, at the close of the faculty program, made a speech to the graduates congratulating the class upon its unusually brilliant personnel, especially mentioning the two graduates who had received one of its members, Miss Elizabeth Vogt, of Kentucky, who has been elected president of the Alumni Association, a position hitherto held only by graduates of mature years. He also presented the diplomas.

After the presentation of diplomas, Miss Drew sang "Miriam's Song of Triumph," accompanied by Mr. Leonard. A reception was given by the students in the college parlors to their friends and relatives.

The stage of the theatre was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, the class colors being draped around the class motto, "Virtus omnia Vincit." All the graduates were recipients of masses of flowers. The auditorium was crowded with the pupils and invited guests, and as each member of the class was called forward to receive her sheepskin, her popularity was attested by the rounds of applause with which the student body greeted her.

Twenty-three young ladies graduated and they were from almost as many different States.

Follow Hounds All Night.

A large party of Montgomery county's most ardent followers of the hounds enjoyed a fox hunt all last Friday night. The members report the finest sport of the kind they ever experienced. In the party were Messrs. Edward C. Peter, W. Outerbridge Spates, former sheriff James C. Gott, Richard T. Spates, Charles A. Clegg, Cecil Allan, William Dawson, William Chiswell, John Magruder, James Atwood, Clay Edwards, Bernard Atwood and others.

The hunt started at 8 o'clock, and the eighteen fine hounds were soon after a big red fox. The chase was uninterrupted for fully two hours, and the pace in the bright moonlight became so hot that the fox took refuge in its den. The dogs were called off, and it was only a very short while before another fox was on the run. This chase also proved a splendid one and lasted until midnight. The hunters then turned toward home. They had not progressed very far, however, before one of the dogs struck a scent and the entire pack was soon in pursuit. This proved the finest chase of the three, and continued until 6 o'clock Saturday morning.

The hunt was principally for the purpose of testing dogs from the upper section of the county against those from this section, and it is understood that the animals proved themselves to be evenly matched.

Confirms Former Decree.—Judge James B. Henderson has filed an opinion in the Circuit Court here, which, in effect, confirms a former decision that Michael J. Brown is entitled to one-half of the estate left by his brother, Daniel W. Brown, who died in 1901.

Daniel W. Brown died unmarried and intestate, leaving considerable personal property and a farm of 72 acres. Michael J. Brown claimed that while the title was really in the name of his brother, it was in fact partnership property of himself and brother by virtue of a co-partnership originally formed in 1879, and continued until the death of Daniel W. Brown. The Circuit Court was asked by the surviving partner to appoint a receiver to take charge of the property, for dissolution and an accounting. After hearing testimony, Judge Henderson decided that the partnership had existed and directed that the property be sold, the proceeds to be subject to further order of Court.

Edgar J. Brown and Maurice M. Brown, sons of a deceased brother of Daniel W. Brown, in December, 1904, filed a petition in the Circuit Court here asking that the decree mentioned be rescinded.

Darnewtown Items.—Darnewtown base ball team defeated Boyd's on Saturday, May 16th, by 12 to 5, on the grounds of the Darnewtown High School. Beall pitched an excellent game, while Allout on third base was in fine form and the home team had it their own way all through the game. The visitors played hard, but their scores were scattered. Batteries, Beall and Lyddane; Orison and Stang.

On May 30th the Darnewtown Gun Club will entertain all who enjoy trap shooting, and the base ball team will line up against Potomac's team on the grounds of the high school at Darnewtown.

Our home team has played four games this season and captured three of them. It has a great many engagements for the near future.

Young Orators Speak on the 22d.—The final contest between the district winners in the B. H. Warner medal contest will be held Saturday, May 23rd, 1908, in Court Hall, Rockville. Each school district in the county will be represented by a pupil from one of the schools in that district.

Col. J. G. Capers, Commissioner of Internal Revenue; Hon. C. H. Peck, United States Attorney; and Hon. J. Dawson Williams, of this county, will address the audience. Music will be furnished by a Washington Orchestra.

The public is earnestly requested to encourage by its presence the pupils in their noble effort to make this contest a thorough success.

Arthur Kemp III.

Attorney S. V. Hayden, counsel for J. Arthur Kemp, former chief and property clerk of the police department, under indictment for embezzlement and larceny, today filed with Justice Barnard a certificate of Dr. Nevitt as to the physical condition of Kemp. Dr. Nevitt says he has had Kemp under observation for ten weeks, and the former clerk is suffering from a severe form of neurosis. He is restless, the physician says, and suffers from insomnia and mental instability, having a depression of the melancholy type. In addition, the patient, according to the physician's certificate, has catarrh of the stomach, and has lost thirty-five or forty pounds in weight.

Dr. Nevitt concludes his certificate with the statement that Kemp could not undergo trial at this time without serious danger to his life.

Relying on this certificate, Attorney Hayden asked the Court to formally postpone the trial until next fall. He informed Justice Barnard that a professional engagement called him to England and passage has been secured on the St. Paul leaving New York next Saturday. He could not possibly return within three weeks, he stated.

Assistant United States Attorney Turner opposed the postponement of the trial until October, saying it is the desire of Mr. Baker to dispose of the case before the summer recess of the Court. He announced that the government will have a physical examination of Kemp made. He asked the Court to set the case for the third week of June.

Justice Barnard declined to set a date for the trial, remarking that the matter might stand over until the report of the physician employed by the government had been received.—Washington Star of Tuesday.

Minister Russell Arrives.

W. W. Russell, American Minister to Venezuela, arrived in New York on Monday, accompanied by his family, on the steamer Caracas. He is home on leave of absence and came to Washington on Tuesday.

Mr. Russell said little information was obtainable at Caracas regarding conditions at La Guaira, which is under close quarantine as a result of an outbreak of bubonic plague.

Reports of serious differences between President Castro, of Venezuela, and Minister Russell were denied by Mr. Russell. The Minister said that while it was true he and President Castro were not in perfect accord on all subjects, there had been nothing in the nature of serious trouble in their relations.

Reports of President Castro's ill health have been considerably exaggerated, Mr. Russell said, adding that the President seems to be in excellent physical condition, rides out every day and there appears to be no doubt of his hold upon power. The rank and file of the army is loyal to him, said the Minister, and the officers are his friends.

"The people of Venezuela must be in sympathy with their President, too," said the Minister, "else they would not submit to his direction of governmental affairs."

Mr. Droop died in February last. To his sister, Marie Droop, who lives in Germany, he left an annual income of $250. His two sons, Edward H. and Carl A. Droop, are given permission to purchase their father's share of the music business in which all three were partners. The amount of the purchase is then to revert to the estate to be divided into 15 parts, of which each son is to receive two. The remainder of his estate is given to his widow, Mrs. Anna Droop, for her life.

The will provides that on the marriage of his daughters each is to receive $5,000, and that the estate at the death of Mrs. Droop is to be divided between the sons and Agnes, Bertha and Anna Droop, his daughters. The American Security and Trust Company is named as administrator and trustee.

Wednesday afternoon lightning struck a large tree on the farm of Mr. M. D. Knight, about two and a half miles from this town, and split it in pieces the size of fencing posts. Mr. U. Magruder Ricketts, Mr. Thomas Everhart and a negro man, who were building a wire fence at another point some distance away on the farm, were struck by the stroke and fell to the ground. The former two were not seriously hurt, but the latter has been confined to his bed since.

Natural Resources Conference.

The Governors of nearly all the States and other prominent men met President Roosevelt at the White House, last week, in conference respecting the conservation of the natural resources of this country, and after occupying several days in the discussion of the subject issued the following paper:

"We the governors of the States and territories of the United States of America, in conference assembled, do hereby declare the conviction that the great prosperity of our country rests upon the abundant resources which our civilization must continue to depend, and upon which the perpetuity of the nation itself rests.

"We look upon these resources as a heritage to be made use of in establishing and promoting the comfort, prosperity and happiness of the American people, but not to be wasted, deteriorated nor needlessly destroyed.

"We agree that our country's future is involved in this; that the great natural resources supply the material basis upon which our civilization must continue to depend, and upon which the perpetuity of the nation itself rests.

"We agree, in the light of facts brought to our knowledge and from information received from sources which we could not doubt, that this material basis is threatened with exhaustion. Even as each succeeding generation from the birth of the nation has performed its part in promoting the progress and development of the republic, so do we this generation recognize it as a high duty to perform our part, and this duty in large degree in the adoption of measures for the conservation of the natural wealth of the country.

"We declare our firm conviction that this conservation of our natural resources is a subject of transcendent importance, which should engage unremittingly the attention of the nation, the States and the people in earnest co-operation. These natural resources include the land on which we live and which we grow our food; the waters which fertilize the soil, supply power and form great avenues of commerce; the forests which yield the materials for our homes, prevent erosion of the soil and conserve the navigation and other uses of our streams, and the minerals which form the basis of our industrial life and supply us with heat, light and power.

"We agree that the land should be so used that erosion and soil wash should cease; that there should be reclamation of arid and semi-arid regions by means of irrigation and swamp and overflow regions by means of drainage; that the waters should be so conserved and used as to promote navigation, to enable the arid regions to be reclaimed by irrigation, and to develop power in the interests of the people; that the forests, which regulate our rivers, support our industries and promote the fertility and productivity of the soil, should be preserved and perpetuated; that the minerals found so abundantly beneath the surface should be so used as to prolong their utility; that the beauty, healthfulness and habitability of our country should be preserved and increased; that the sources of national wealth exist for the benefit of all the people, and that the monopoly thereof should not be tolerated.

"We commend the wise foresight of the President in sounding the note of warning as to the waste and exhaustion of the natural resources of the country, and signify our high appreciation of his action in calling this conference to consider the same and to seek remedies therefor through co-operation of the nation and the States.

"We agree that this co-operation should find expression in suitable action by the Congress within the limits of, and co-extensive with, the national jurisdiction of the subject, and complementary thereto, by the legislatures of the several States within the limits of, and co-extensive with, their jurisdiction.

"We declare the conviction that in the use of the natural resources our independent States are interdependent and bound together by ties of mutual benefits, responsibilities and duties.

"We agree in the wisdom of future conferences between the President, members of Congress and the Governors of the States regarding the conservation of our natural resources, with the view of continued co-operation and action on the lines suggested. And to this end we advise that from time to time, as in his judgment may seem wise, the President call the governors of the States, members of Congress and others into conference.

"We agree that further action is advisable to secure the present condition of our natural resources and to promote the conservation of the same. And to that end we recommend the appointment by each State of a commission on the conservation of natural resources, to co-operate with each other and with any similar commission on behalf of the federal government.

"We urge the continuation and extension of forest policies adapted to secure the husbanding and renewal of our diminishing timber supply, the prevention of soil erosion, the protection of headwaters and the maintenance of the purity and navigability of our streams. We recognize that the private ownership of forest lands entails responsibilities in the interests of all the people, and we favor the enactment of laws looking to the protection and replacement of privately owned forests.

"We recognize in our waters a most valuable asset of the people of the United States, and we recommend the enactment of laws looking to the conservation of water resources, the regulation of water supply, power and navigation, to the end that navigable and source streams may be brought under complete control and fully utilized for every purpose. We especially urge on the federal Congress the immediate adoption of a wise and thorough waterway policy, providing for the prompt improvement of our streams and conservation of their watersheds required for the uses of commerce and the protection of the interests of our people.

"We recognize the conservation of laws looking to the prevention of waste in the mining and extraction of coal, oil, gas and other minerals with a view to their wise conservation for the use of the people and to the protection of human life in the mines. "Let us conserve the foundations of our prosperity."

In Memoriam.

In sad and loving remembrance of our darling Ethel, only daughter of Wm. H. and Louise Page, who died May 23rd, 1901. So bright and beautiful was the morning That our dear Ethel passed away; She seemed to hear a voice calling "Leave thy afflicted bed to day."

So cheerfully she talked of dying, Nor did she shrink at death's cold look, For she said that the following advice Seemed to her but a little brook. In her youth she sought her Savior, In affliction he was by her side, And in death he sent his guardian angel Safely her spirit to Heaven guide. Ethel, when the violets open, And the trees in beauty wave, We will often wander To our darling's grave.

And when the birds are singing And the blossoms deck the sod, We know your soul is sleeping In the paradise of God. Never to be forgotten. Gone with her brothers.

By her sad parents.

Recipe for Rheumatism.

Directions to Prepare Simple, Yet Remarkable Home Mixture.

There is so much rheumatism here in our neighborhood, and that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will surely be of benefit to those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will not find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative organs of the kidneys, so that they can filter and strain from the blood and excrete the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble, should at once begin to take this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists should be well supplied with the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask him.
