

THE SENTINEL.

ROCKVILLE, MD.

Friday Morning—May 6 1910.

TO BE "THE PEOPLE'S COURT."

The Public Service Commission organized last Monday in the office of Gov. Crothers, in the Union Trust Building, Baltimore, by the election of Mr. Emerson C. Harrington, of Rochester county, as secretary, and the designation of Attorney-General Louis L. Straus as legal adviser. Mr. Straus will serve in this capacity until the election of a chief counsel and assistant counsel, which it is not believed will be done until the return of Mr. W. A. Abell, from abroad. The members of the commission present were Chairman James M. Ambler and Mr. Philip D. Laird.

Prior to the meeting the two commissioners conferred with the Governor and Attorney-General Straus, after which they went into the room of the State Roads Commission. The Governor took a seat beside the two commissioners. In calling the meeting to order, Mr. Ambler called the commission "the people's court." Noting that the doors were closed he asked that they be opened, as a court of public was in session. Mr. J. Clarence Bowerman, secretary to the State Roads Commission, acted as secretary. Mr. Ambler announced that Mr. Straus would serve as counsel to the commission until the regular counsel, provided for in the law, had been elected. Mr. Straus will receive no compensation. As the author of the act, he consented to assist the commission in putting it into operation, although it will add much work to his present arduous labors as Attorney-General.

Mr. Laird nominated Mr. Harrington for secretary, and he was unanimously elected. The position pays $3,000 a year.

At the request of Mr. Ambler, Mr. Straus made a statement of the attitude of the commission. He said:

"I am interpreting and expressing the views and positions of the Public Service Commission in saying that the commission regards itself distinctly as an agency of the State and of the people of the State. In the practical administration of its work the commission will hold itself immediately close to the people. It wishes the people of Maryland and all other interests to which the act has relation to realize distinctly that the commission conceives itself to be a court, always and directly open for the hearing of complaints, and with a view of giving just and reasonable relief and redress in respect to all matters committed to it under the law.

"No ceremony, no formalities, further than those which are necessary to an orderly procedure in the matter of its duties, will surround the work of the commission. Its doors will be always open. There will be no barriers between the people and the commission, and it is the wish of the commission that the people realize that the commission is close to them.

"The commission will sit here at convenient hours for the reception of applications from whatever sources, and will give prompt, full and careful hearing to all such applications as may be properly submitted under the law.

"When the commission is not in session, the secretary or his assistants, or other agents of the commission, will be on duty within the hours prescribed by the law for the reception of applications.

"As the chairman, in announcing that the commission was organized, stated, the commission is 'the people's court.' It is a court of justice in the interest of what is right, fair and proper, and it wishes the people and all other interests involved in the administration of the act to fully appreciate and realize that fact."

Mr. Ambler said that he trusted that the position and duties of the commission as defined by Mr. Straus would be fully appreciated.

The commission met on Wednesday last in the State offices in the Union Trust Building, Baltimore, to hear its first case. The Western Maryland Railway Company and the George's Creek and Cumberland Valley Railroad Company will ask the approval of the commission to complete the extension and branch line of the George's Creek Company to Connelville. The extension will form connections with the Lake Erie Railroad at that point. About 19 miles of the road, over which the commission has jurisdiction, is in Maryland. The companies will also ask for the approval of the commission for the sale of stock to complete the undertaking.

The commission hereafter will meet daily from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. It expects to secure permanent offices in the Union Trust Building.

AGAIN MR. LEWIS WILL RUN FOR CONGRESS

Since it became known that the friends of Mr. David J. Lewis wish him again to be the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth District, a reporter of the Cumberland, Md., Times interviewed him on the subject.

Mr. Lewis said: "I am very much pleased to know from the press and my friends throughout the district that they wish me to make the fight again for Congress. I have made up my mind to do so if the party considers me opportune. Such of my friends as I have talked to on the subject seem to think that having taken up the fight as an utterly forlorn hope two years ago, and having nearly elected, they ought to have another chance this fall. They believe that they can win this time, whoever the candidate may be on the Republican ticket."

If nominated, I shall go into the contest with all the vim I possess; and since the district covers so large a territory, I should like to see the nominating convention held as early as possible, so that if nominated I may have as much time as possible to recoup the time that I have lost.

I am under many obligations already to the press and my friends, without regard to party, for their generous support. I hope I am not expecting too much in asking them to renew it in my behalf in this second effort.

WALKING.

On the last of February last Edward P. Weston, aged seventy-one years, left the city of Los Angeles, headed for New York. Monday he finished his journey of 3,600 miles, twelve days ahead of his pre-arranged schedule, stepping as briskly at the end of the trip as he did at the outset. An immense crowd greeted him as he completed the last lap of the long walk, the mayor of the city made a formal address and presented him with a purse of gold and in other respects the veteran pedestrian was welcomed with as much distinction as a hero returning from the wars or a mighty hunter from the jungle. In some respects Weston's achievement is more important than that of the soldier or the hunter. Intrinsically valuable in this day of rapid transit facilities, the demonstration of this veteran is nevertheless of prime importance to mankind. It distinctly proves the value of healthy living, the benefit of temperate habits and of consideration for the requirements of the physical system. It is a striking advertisement of the wholesomeness of outdoor exercise and particularly of walking as a means of keeping the body in prime condition.
