

KILLED BY HOBOES

Henry Lyinger Clubbed to Death in Berrien County

VICTIM OF TRAVELING PESTS

His Body Was Bruised as if He Had Been Beaten With a Heavy Club, and the Sheriff is Looking Into the Matter.

St. Joseph, Mich., July 9.—News has reached here of the murder of Henry Lyinger. The body was found on the Three I tracks near Baroda, a small town south of this city. It is a result of the hobo situation in the southern section of the county, which is the worst in many years and which is becoming alarming.

A week ago Lyinger was walking into Baroda, when he was attacked by a band of hobo men, left for dead, being robbed of $19. He was terribly mutilated. One of his ears was all but severed from his head. He received medical treatment and returned to try to locate the robbers and get his money back. He was evidently surprised by a gang of hobo men. His body was bruised as if he had been beaten with a heavy club. The sheriff is investigating.

DOES ANYONE KNOW HIM?

The crime is alleged to have occurred at a small lumber camp run by James Harrison, six miles southeast of here. All are known to have been drinking heavily during the day and evening of Parker's death. He was found the next morning with his head crushed and body badly bruised. A coroner's jury found his death to be the result of foul play, but no evidence sufficient to warrant fixing the crime upon anyone could be secured until the arrest and conviction of one of the party for burglary during the past winter.

Gambler Badly Used.

Ypsilanti, Mich., July 9.—As the result of disputes over the supposed value of the gambling privileges, the professional gamblers who accompany the Buckskin oil wild west show quarreled with the show men last night, and one of the gamblers was badly used by a party of cowboys, who beat him with their pistols and shot at him as he attempted to run away. The jockey inquired what the fine would be for assault and battery on the court. At last reports he was looking for the man who swore out the warrant.

BODY IDENTIFIED.

Julius Fenberg Name of Man Found Dead at White Pigeon.

White Pigeon, Mich., July 10.—The body of the stranger found early Sunday morning on the Lake Shore track has been identified through the torn L. O. O. F. receipt as that of Julius Fenberg of L. O. O. F. lodge No. 689, Wheatland, Ind. His relatives reside at La Crosse, La Porte county, Ind., and have been notified.

That he lay down on the track with suicidal intent is considered certain, as a small memorandum found in a pocket contained the words, "Bury, kind, decently;" also that but part of the lodge receipt was destroyed, indicating that while he wished to destroy his identity, he desired to be known as an Odd Fellow and be buried by the order.

SKIPPED OUT.

Woman Who Is Charged With Stealing an Abstract.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 10.—On June 20 Mrs. Grace Walker, alias Maude R. Roberts, was arrested in Detroit charged with stealing an abstract from Mrs. Hannah Whipple of South Thayer street. The game had been reported from several cities in the east, where it had been worked successfully.

The woman was brought here and placed in jail, but her nervous condition was such that she had to be removed to a hotel. When arraigned her attorney asked for an adjournment. But the woman, not being under bail bonds, took occasion to skip and did not appear in court yesterday.

Bliss a few weeks ago promised to appoint ex-Auditor General Dix of this county a member of the state tax commission in case Graham Pope declined. There is a feeling of certainty here that Dix will be appointed. The politicians declare that the appointment of Dix would tend to heal the sore spots in the party and would be a good thing for the governor, as it would place Berrien county in the Bliss column.

Port Huron, Mich., July 10.—Without any discernible pain, Judge O'Brien J. Atkinson passed away yesterday morning, surrounded by his wife and other relatives. The end had been expected for some time past, as the physicians announced that he was fighting a hopeless fight, and for the past few weeks the judge realized that the end was but a question of days. A YOUTH DROWNED

A Young Detroiters Meets a Watery Grave at Tashmoo

WAS TAKEN WITH CRAMPS

Desperate Efforts Made to Save Him By His Companions Were of No Avail and He Sank Before Their Eyes.

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—Yesterday at noon, full of life and hope, and in excellent health and good spirits, young Charles F. Thieler arrived at the Sans Souci summer resort on the St. Clair river. Half an hour afterward he was a corpse.

His father, Joseph Thieler, retired merchant, lives at 367 St. Aubin avenue. With his brother, Arthur Thieler, and his cousin, Frank Mitchell, he left Detroit on the steamer Tashmoo. They disembarked at Tashmoo park and walked to the family cottage, a few yards distant. Charles, who was about six feet in height, a good athlete and a strong swimmer, proposed bathing in the river. His brother agreed. They both donned bathing trunks and swam out some 20 yards, just beyond the channel bank. Here the water was colder in the current. Arthur started to return and called to Charles to come with him.

Suddenly, without making any outcry, Charles sank below the surface. Arthur saw some planks on shore, and started to get one in order to aid his brother when he rose, but the planks were fastened together and he could not use them. However, Charles did not come up. Arthur and a bystander dived to the bottom of the river, but could not find the body. Several efforts were made by other bystanders, but the body was only recovered after being in the water about an hour and a quarter, and by the use of grappling irons. Prolonged efforts at resuscitation proved fruitless.

The new beacon lighthouse on Muskegon lake burned to the water's edge. The government ordered it built several weeks ago and a government lighthouse boat has been at Muskegon building it. It was just finished. It was to be filled with oil every seven days, furnishing light day and night. It is supposed the machinery being new it failed to work properly and caused the fire. Another lighthouse will probably be built at once.

R. E. McLean, general superintendent of the I. Stephenson Co.'s plant at Wells, says that his company has sufficient timber to last for 50 years at the lowest estimate, and probably longer. This seems a strong assertion, yet Mr. McLean knows what he is talking about, as he has the reputation of being a very careful and conservative lumberman and manager. Wells is a suburb of Escanaba, reached by electric cars.
