"1900" Ramblers, $40.00.

That is the price of the BEST Rambler we ever have built. This assertion means a great deal, because we NEVER constructed a poor RAMBLER! Stands to reason that when you purchase a "1900" RAMBLER, you are getting a BETTER WHEEL than you could have bought two or three years ago for EIGHTY DOLLARS. If "money talks," 'tis worth while listening to, in this case.

MR. SMITH IN OFFICE

New Governor of Maryland Inaugurated at Annapolis Today.

LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

Wilfred Bateman of Talbot Made Secretary of State.

GEN. L. A. WILMER RESIGNS

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star.

STATE HOUSE, ANNAPOLIS, Md., January 10.—Representative John Walter Smith was inaugurated as governor of Maryland today at noon in the presence of both houses of the general assembly and a large crowd of people from all sections of the state. The oath was administered by Chief Judge James McSherry of the court of appeals, in the historic senate chamber in which Washington resigned his commission in 1783, and in which all the governors of Maryland have been inaugurated since 1772.

Governor Smith and his party came to Annapolis this morning on a special train, reaching here at 11:15 o'clock. They were driven at once to the governor's mansion, where they were received by Governor and Mrs. Lowndes, who entertained them until the inauguration took place, at which time they proceeded to the state house.

Governor Smith's inauguration address was short and to the point. He reiterated the pledges made in the democratic state platform and promised their fulfillment as far as his influence could bring about the same. The first official act of the new governor was to appoint Mr. Wilfred Bateman of Talbot county as secretary of state, and the senate promptly confirmed that official. No other appointments will be made for several weeks, as the terms of the present state officials will not expire until spring.

Adjutant General Wilmer Resigns.

Adjutant General L. Allison Wilmer has resigned to accept the office of state's attorney of Charles county, to which he was elected in November last. Governor Smith has requested General Wilmer to retain the place for a few days until he decides upon a successor.

Governor Smith has resigned as representative in Congress from the first district. He announced today that he would not call a special election to fill the vacancy, so the eastern shore will remain without a representative in Congress until after the fall election.

The presiding officers of the two houses of the general assembly have decided not to announce their committees until next week. A large number of bills have been introduced, among which are several looking to the reorganization of the police force of Baltimore city. Ex-Governor and Mrs. Lowndes will go to their home in Cumberland tonight.

Congratulated by Judges.

Before he left Annapolis today the judges of the court of appeals called on the former governor and congratulated him on the work accomplished by his administration, and thanked him for the courtesies extended to them during his residence at Annapolis. After the inauguration Governor Smith held a reception in the executive chamber, where he shook hands with several hundred people who called to pay their respects.

PRESIDENT DENOUNCED.

The Administration Accused of Coquetting With Roman Catholics.

At a meeting held last night at Masonic Temple and presided over by Josiah Millard, president of the Protestant American League of Washington, an address was made by Jesse Hardenbergh of Cleveland, Ohio, supreme grand master of the Loyal Orange Institution of the United States.

The speaker bitterly arraigned President McKinley, charging him and his administration with entering into a barter and sale transaction with the pope of Rome, and selling out the country to Romanism, the price paid being political power. Mr. Hardenbergh also violently attacked the Roman Catholic Church and denounced convents in emphatic sentences replete with broad insinuations. He declared that both political parties had been coquetting with the Roman Catholics, and the republicans seemed to be the successful suitors. In conclusion the speaker appealed to his auditors to "Rally 'round the flag and give battle to Romanism, even if it is found in the White House."

In announcing the object of the meeting the chairman, Mr. Millard, stated that it was to revive the doctrines of the Reformation and the revolution in the minds of the men and women of this generation, and that it was held under the auspices of several patriotic orders of the United States, including the American Protective Association, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, the Knights of Malta, the Orangemen and the Protestant American League. He declared it was the duty of American citizenship to destroy the power of the Roman Catholic Church.

After Rev. W. A. Cuddy offered prayer Mr. Hardenbergh spoke as described. When he had finished a series of resolutions were offered and adopted by a rising vote. They had been prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of C. B. Schaefer, who reported them. After reciting that all men, according to the Constitution, are entitled to the full and free exercise of their several modes of religious worship, and are exempt from the contribution of money for the propagation of opinions in which they disbelieve, it was resolved "that the preservation of the Protestant religion in its integrity is necessary to the preservation of the Constitution and the right of free inquiry and private judgment;

"That this being a Protestant nation, every discrimination in favor of popery is dangerous to our national life, and therefore we deeply deprecate all acts of government appropriating public money to institutions controlled by the Roman Catholics; also the placing of Roman Catholic priests as chaplains in our army and navy;

"That the time has come when, as Americans and Protestant freemen, we must take part in politics, but by reason of acquiescence in existing abuses the same become inveterate by repetition, and we therefore condemn the existing political parties for their course on the school question and on appropriations in support of Rome."

It was also resolved to send copies of the resolutions to all senators and representatives. After benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. H. Butler of the Lutheran Church the gathering, which had sung several patriotic songs during the meeting, also sang two stanzas of the "Star Spangled Banner" and adjourned.

MISS STALLINGS MISSING.

Young Woman From Anne Arundel County, Md., Disappears.

The police have been requested to look out for Miss Bertha J. Stallings, who has been missing for a week. Her father, Stephen Stallings, who lives near Bristol, Anne Arundel county, Md., called on Inspector Boardman today and reported the case. Miss Stallings is twenty-one years old and weighs about 140 pounds. She has fair complexion and dark brown hair. When last seen at the home of her aunt, No. 437 Harrison street, Anacostia, she wore a light hat and coat and a dark skirt.

Miss Stallings had been employed as an attendant at St. Elizabeth's but spent about three weeks at her parents' home this winter on account of sickness. She returned to her aunt's house and the 3d of this month was given a check for her salary. Since receiving the check she has not been seen, so far as known, by any one who knew her. Her father learned yesterday of her disappearance and he came here this morning. He believes her illness affected her mind and caused her to wander away. A complete description of the woman was given and the police of the several precincts were notified.

A sofa caught fire from some unknown cause in house No. 1317 D street northwest last night. It is believed it was caused by some person who imagined he was playing a joke. About $20 damage was done.

Dixon's Seconds Throw Up the Sponge in Eighth Round.

LARGE CROWD SAW A ONE-SIDED FIGHT

Colored Boxer Succumbs to the Rushes of His Opponent.

CURRENT SPORTING NEWS

George Dixon, the wonderful colored feather-weight, lost his proud title of world's champion last night before the Broadway Athletic Club, New York. In eight rounds Terrence McGovern, the human trip-hammer from Brooklyn, thumped the plucky Dixon into quick and decisive defeat just as the colored boy had done to scores of fighters before his conqueror's time.

Eight thousand persons witnessed the contest, which upheld prediction that it would be the greatest feather-weight fight in ring history. Dixon put up a game defense, and while not literally knocked out he was so close to it that his seconds threw up the sponge in token of defeat at a time when McGovern was battering the game old general of the prize ring into insensibility.

Dixon fought while there was strength left in his body and many a man in the great gathering of lovers of fisticuffs which packed the Broadway Athletic Club to its utmost capacity turned their heads as the white boy gradually beat the little colored wonder down. They had seen Dixon knock out all the champions of this and European countries for nearly nine years and they did not relish seeing him a mere plaything in the hands of the new wonder which Brooklyn has given to the fighting world.

Dixon Fearfully Punished.

Every round found Dixon coming cheerfully from his corner with the same old confident smile. He began nearly every round with the first lead, but this only seemed to give McGovern the opportunity he sought for. Terry pounded Dixon's body with frightful punches, left and rights, and eventually beat the strength from the hero of hundreds of ring contests. Dixon was weak, but game, and went down hopelessly defeated, but yet game enough to fight if allowed.

When Tom O'Rourke threw up the sponge there was a sigh of relief, for a remarkable boxer had fought gallantly to uphold his title of champion. McGovern was a veritable fighting machine and impressed those at the ringside by his actions in the roped arena that he knew he had an easy thing. Several times in that final round when he knocked Dixon down he would aid the colored boy to his feet, wait for him to get in fighting attitude and then put him down again with terrific body blows.

Eight times in the final round Dixon was beaten to the canvas-covered floor of the ring and seven times McGovern aided him to his feet. The crowd cheered the Brooklyn boy vociferously for these manifestations of feeling for his foe, even though it looked as if he was aiding Dixon to his feet to knock him down again.

Dixon took a terrible beating about the body, and when the sponge was thrown up by O'Rourke he was in a sorry state. His nose was broken and his body covered with bruises, yet the plucky fighter was groping blindly in a vain but game effort to once more face his antagonist.

It was a great battle, and the most remarkable man the ring has ever known has been defeated.

Pugilism has a new champion of two classes—bantam and feather-weight—in Terry McGovern, against whom not a man in the ranks of fighters at his weight has an apparent chance.

The men weighed in a few minutes before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Neither of them lifted the scale at 118 pounds. Both seemed to be in good condition, but McGovern looked a trifle too finely drawn. Both lads retired to a nearby restaurant, and each had a good sleep before being called to the ringside.

Big Prices for Seats.

Tickets of admission which cost $5 were readily disposed of at $7 and $8. Reserve seats in the hands of speculators brought fabulous prices, and before the introductory bout was half completed every seat in the house was occupied, and the aisles were choked with persons, many of whom had paid as much as $10 for admission. The betting assumed a more lively gait as the house began to fill up, and more Dixon money came in sight. One hundred to seventy on McGovern was always ot be had, and the offers at this rate were accepted as fast as they were made.

McGovern wore white jocks, held up with an emerald green silk belt. Master of Ceremonies Humphreys introduced the lads, and announced that they were to box twenty-five rounds, strictly under Marquis of Queensberry rules.

INDOOR ATHLETIC MEET.

Notable Event at Convention Hall February 17.

The notably successful indoor athletic meet in Convention Hall last March, under the auspices of the Georgetown University Athletic Association, will be followed by one February 17, under the same auspices, and gives every promise of fully equaling that initial event. At the meet last March Pennsylvania sent down a team of eight star athletes, who easily carried off the lion's share of the honors in competition with a couple of representatives each from Princeton, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore Medical College and Georgetown's athletes. A new world's record was established by J. K. Baxter of Pennsylvania, who cleared 6 feet 3⅝ inches in the running high jump. Many school boys, a good representation coming from out-of-town institutions, mostly in Philadelphia, also participated in the games and contributed to their success.

For this year's meet assurances have been received for even a larger representation than appeared last year, entries having already been promised by Pennsylvania, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, Cornell, Harvard and Virginia, and fully as many academies and high schools. All the educational institutions in the east having any athletes to send and the prominent ones in other parts of the country have been invited to be represented, and many more entries are expected.

Convention Hall has been engaged for the meet and a track equal to any indoor track in the country will be built. Arrangements are being made to fit up the hall elaborately, and no efforts will be spared to comfortably seat an immense gathering and to run off the events in the best manner.

Nearly all the outdoor intercollegiate field and track events will be on the program, including about eight handicaps, two collegiate scratch events and two scholastic handicap runs at the fifty-yard and 880-yard distances. There will also be a number of match relay races among both college and school teams. Valuable prizes will be awarded in each event.

Indoor work by Georgetown's athletes has begun and every effort will be made by the blue and gray to have her representatives in condition. There is an unusually large array of athletes at Georgetown this year, which will, no doubt, be her most successful one on the field and track.

Arrangements for this meet are in charge of the following students, who will select committees, of which they will be chairmen: Director of committees, Charles J. Martell; chairman of games committee, J. P. B. Duffy; chairman of program committee, J. E. Moore; chairman of hall committee, Charles M. Barry; chairman of advertising committee, Joseph L. McAleer; chairman of ticket committee, W. Greevy, and chairman of press committee, J. Edward Mulligan.

To Try for Whist Trophy.

The Baltimore Whist Club's team which is to play for the American Whist League trophy next month, has been selected and will be composed of the following players: Beverly W. Smith, W. A. Thomas, George P. Thomas, jr., and A. H. McCay.

The trophy will come east February 1 and the first contest will be played between the whist clubs of Toronto, Canada, and Boston, Mass., on the first Saturday in February, in Toronto. The Baltimore team will play the winners of that contest the following Saturday, February 10, either in Toronto or Boston, according to which club wins the first match.

The Walbrook Club of Baltimore will probably play for the league trophy later, but the team has not yet been selected. Notwithstanding the fact that there are many fine players in this city, a representative four has not been selected for several years past.

CONVICTED OF THEFT.

Three Defendants Pay the Penalty of Wrongdoing.

Walter Brown, a colored porter, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Lacy and Herndon on a charge of stealing a skirt from Samuel Friedlander's store, where he was employed. The case was heard in the Police Court today and the defendant denied that he committed the theft. Judge Kimball held him guilty and imposed a penalty of $20 or sixty days.

George Taylor, also colored, was in Judge Kimball's court also for alleged theft. Policeman Seibert arrested him for the theft of five pounds of sausage from Hiram Gordon's stand in the market. The prisoner was fined $5, with the privilege of spending fifteen days in jail.

Joseph Burrell, colored, admitted that he was dealing in junk in an illegal way when he was arrested. He was coming out of the Baltimore and Ohio freight yard with a bag of iron on his back when an officer deprived him of his liberty. A plea of guilty to a charge of theft was entered and a penalty of $10 or one month was imposed.

Colored Citizen Loses $5 to a Footpad in Alexandria.

Stewart Edmonds, colored, forty-five years old, who has been employed in this city as a hodcarrier, went over to Alexandria last night, expecting to get an express package from his wife, who lives in Charlottesville. The package, he says, contained his Sunday suit of clothes.

Before he had gone far on his way from the railway station to the express office, he says, a colored man assaulted him and took more than $5 from him, leaving him only enough to pay his car fare back to this city. He was cared for in Alexandria until this morning, when he returned here and called on Sanitary Officer Frank. When he reached headquarters his eyes were almost closed and he showed other evidences of having been severely dealt with.

Edmonds says he learned the name of his assailant, and when he gets well he is going over to Alexandria and have him arrested. He was sent to Freedmen's Hospital for treatment. The Alexandria authorities will be notified of the case.
